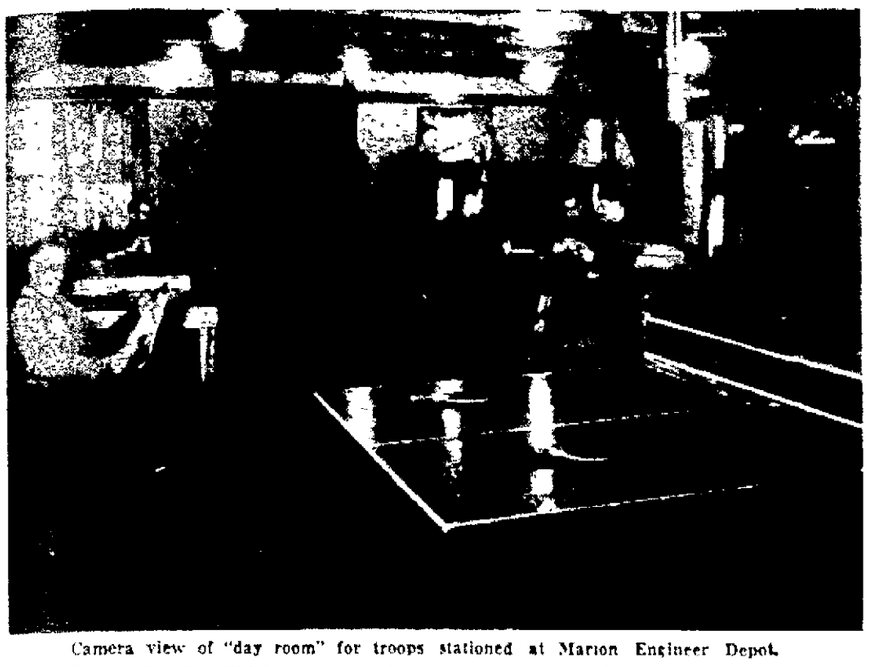
Engineer Troops Have New Recreation Center



Camera view of "day room" for troops stationed at Marion Engineer Depot.

Marion Groups Provide Furnishings at Request of Red Cross.

A unit of U. S. Army Engineer troops stationed in barracks at the Marion Engineer Depot has a newly furnished recreation center.

Every camp is given a room by the government to be used as a reading or recreation room but the furnishings must be provided by interested civilians. Upon the request of the military authorities at the depot in March, the Marion Chapter of the Red Cross invited service organizations, the Jewish Council, St. Vincent De Paul, the Federated Women's clubs and the Ministerial association to send representatives to visit the camp and determine what was needed. The group met with the Camp Field Director, Jack Bales of Camp Millard, and Capt. Rossing of the Engineers unit stationed at the depot.

Committee Chosen

From the group attending the meeting, the following committee was approved by the local Red Cross chapter: Carl Danner, chairman; Harold Nussbaum, John Lacey, Miss Mary Kull, A. L. Loeb, Mrs. Carl Sawyer, chairman of the special volunteer services, Mrs. J. H. Harmon, junior Red Cross chairman, Rev. Garrison Roebuck and Kelley Vance.

The results accomplished by the committee are very apparent to the boys now making use of the new "day room" at the depot. Instead of the bare room furnished only with rough benches and tables, two soft drink vending machines, glaring overhead lights, an untuned piano and a broken down ping pong table, the place now boasts many comforts and conveniences such as a comfortable davenport and easy chair. The piano has been tuned, the ping pong table repaired, a radio, lamps, a number of straight chairs and card tables have been added. Through the efforts of the manual training department at Thomas A. Edison Junior High school, the service men now have attractive magazine racks, a desk, pin up lamps, book shelves both of the floor and wall variety, four dart games, two cribbage boards, six toss games and a number of ash-trays and two smoking stands. Contributions from all the schools included playing cards, games, puzzles, two pictures and many coat hangers.

The women of the Emanuel Lutheran church made up the material that had been purchased for curtains. The windows are now dressed in olive drab trimmed with red and blue tape.

170 Use Room Now

At the present time 170 men have the use of the room. To all of them it seems like a little bit of home in the middle of army routine. The troops are receiving training at the depot. The efforts of the Red Cross toward providing the room are in accord with their Congressional charter which states: "It is the Red Cross responsibility to furnish voluntary aid to the sick and wounded of the Army and Navy in time of war, to act in matters of voluntary relief and in accord with the military and naval authorities as a medium of communication between the people of the United States and their Army and Navy."

ALLIED HELP ASKED BY TITO

Interview with Yugoslav Partisan Leader Finally Released by Censor.

[illegible] Associated Press' interview with Marshal Josip Broz (Tito) has been the subject of discussion since it was disclosed last week that it was held up by censorship of the allied command was applied to dispatches for publication [illegible] paragraphs of the dispatch was intact except passages referring to movement of warships.

The dispatch was submitted for censorship April 30. When clearance was refused The Associated Press representatives in Algiers, London and directly to General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, commander in chief in the Mediterranean since it was [illegible] that political censorship was applied.

This week the AP was informed that the delay in clearance was due to the fact that Marshal Tito had stipulated that his replies be published or not at all. Delegates then referred back to the marshal and final clearance was given.

Following is the full dispatch as received from Algiers the final censorship point today.

By JOSEPH MORTON

BARI, ITALY, April 30—(Delayed by Censor)—Marshal Josip Broz (Tito), in his first press interview, asserted today that the Yugoslav peoples and his national liberation army wanted not only material help from the allies to carry on their struggle against the Germans but also recognition of the National Committee of Liberation as the government of Yugoslavia.

Since this dispatch was written it has learned that Sgt. Walter Bernstein, correspondent of Yank magazine, had a personal interview with Tito which may have antedated this one.)

The Marshal said the committee had not formally demanded such recognition of the United States, Britain and Russia, but that recognition would "strengthen the united struggle" and that concessions against it were weakening every day."

[illegible] expressed his views in reply to a series of questions submitted to him by The Associated Press. He wrote the answers in his own tongue, Croatian, and signed the document "J. B. Tito, Marshal of Yugoslavia."

The means by which the questions were taken to his secret headquarters in Yugoslavia and the answers were brought out [illegible] remain secret.

HIT 3 BLOWS AGAINST JAPS

Naval Units from All Pacific Commands Join in Carrier Blow at Soerabaja.

By The Associated Press

Three bold blows against the Japanese paid off for the allies today.

1. A Nimitz-Mountbatten-MacArthur force, teaming up for the first time in the Pacific war, daringly steamed into the heart of Japan's Dutch East Indies holdings and heavily bombed Soerabaja Wednesday, topping it off with a land-based bombing raid the same day.

2. Americans and Chinese, following up their surprising descent on Myitkyina airfield in Burma, were reported driving the enemy out of their Myitkyina garrison.

3. The overwhelming landings on Wakde island 110 miles west of newly-captured Hollandia on Dutch New Guinea progressed so fast that the vital airstrip there was nearly ready for allied use.

The Soerabaja stroke, first water-borne assault against this principal enemy base in the Indies, was forged out of a carrier force drawn from the commands of Adm. Chester W. Nimitz, Central Pacific commander; Adm. Lord Louis Mountbatten, Southeast Asia chief, and Gen. Douglas MacArthur, commander in the Southwest Pacific.

Carrier Plane Attacks

Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced in a special communique that carrier planes attacked and damaged important oil and dock installations and struck at 35,000 tons of shipping sheltering in the great Java harbor.

The attack was the first water-borne assault against Soerabaja, an important base the allies were forced out of two years ago.

On the heels of the carrier strike, Liberator bombers flew in a few hours later and bombed the Soerabaja railyards and other installations. Their attack Wednesday night took them on a 2,500-mile round trip from a northwest Australian base.

A special communique issued by General MacArthur in coordination with Mountbatten's command did not disclose the make up of the raiding fleet, but mention of French participants was a new development in the spreading allied assaults in the Pacific.

The raid was the second into the enemy-held Dutch East Indies. A carrier force from the Southeast Asian command, aided by a force from the Central Pacific, raided northwestern Sumatra and nearby Sabang in mid-April.

In Burma three forces converged on Myitkyina under Lt. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell's command. The airdrome two miles away already was his and neutralization of this key Japanese base seemed at hand. Myitkyina is vital to Stilwell's dream of linking up the new Ledo highway and the old Burma road into China.

Chinese forces meanwhile pressed their attacks across the Salween river, aiming at a junction with Stilwell.

The swift capture of Wakde's airdrome, almost without opposition, moved General MacArthur into position for ever-heavier strikes at enemy bases blocking his return to the Philippines. The airstrip was described today as very nearly ready for allied use.

In eastern India and central Burma the Japanese suffered heavy casualties in frenzied counterattacks.

In north China the enemy maintained his threat to Loyang, key city below the Yellow river. The Chinese admitted their forces were cut off there but were not conceding they had lost the town.

2-STORY FALL IN SHAFT FATAL TO LEE SWICK

Masonic Building Custodian Plunges Down Elevator Opening; Dies Instantly.

Lee Swick, 68, a custodian at the Marion Masonic Temple building was killed at 9:45 this morning when he fell down the elevator shaft at the building.

He apparently fell from the second floor elevator door to the basement of the building.

Harold Hall Masonic secretary, who was in the building at the time of the accident, said he had talked to Mr. Swick a few minutes before the accident and that Mr. Swick had intended to go to the basement to get an extra pan for a large vacuum cleaner.

Hears Noise in Shaft

About a minute and-a-half after Mr. Swick had left, Mr. Hall was startled by a loud noise in the elevator shaft. Supposing that Mr. Swick might have knocked the sweeper over in the elevator, he went to find the cause of the noise. When he reached the second floor of the Temple the elevator door was standing open and the elevator car had left the landing.

Mr. Hall then went to the basement and looked into a compartment surrounding the base of the elevator shaft, but since he did not find the car, he carried the investigation no further and decided to go to the fourth floor landing. When he arrived he noticed light coming from a key hole. He opened the door and Mr. Swick was not in the car. It was then that he made a second trip to the basement and found Mr. Swick's body at the base of the shaft. The car does not travel to the basement level when in normal operation and neither is it supposed to move when landing doors or left open.

Recently Inspected

The lever which controlled movement of the elevator was still at neutral when the car was found at the top of the shaft.

An inspector for the company which manufactured the elevator was called from Columbus and was expected to arrive this afternoon. The mechanism had received its monthly inspection the last week in April. The opinion was expressed that lightning which struck at Central Fire station Wednesday night might have caused damage to wiring in the elevator. The Masonic temple is located at the corner of Main and Church streets and the fire station near the corner of Prospect and Church streets.

Mr. Swick was the second man to meet death in the shaft. Harry Carr, also a custodian, was killed 10 years ago when he stepped from an open elevator landing door on the first floor lobby of the building.

Mr. Swick was never married and lived alone at the Y. M. C. A. He was born July 29, 1875. He is survived by a sister, Mrs. Emery Robinson, of Ostrander, and a cousin, Mrs. Charles McGuire of 879½ East Center street. The body was taken to the Merle H. Hughes mortuary.

Mr. Swick was employed for nearly 20 years at the Beverly and Schneider roofing and heating shop which was located on South Main street. He was born near Delaware. He was formerly active in Canby Lodge No. 51, Knights of Pythias.

Citywide Cleanup Drive Scheduled To Start Monday

A citywide cleanup campaign will start Monday and continue for two weeks, John V. Ruth, city safety-service director, announced today.

He appealed to all Marion residents to make arrangements to have their rubbish, including the accumulation from spring house cleaning, hauled away during this period.

Working with Mr. Ruth in the various departments will be Dr. M. M. Weinbaum, city health commissioner, T. S. Cathers, city engineer and J. W. Honaker, foreman of the rubbish department.

Plans have been made for city trucks to haul rubbish for a regular pickup service charge, or residents may inquire at the office for the name of one of 17 private haulers operating in Marion. Persons desiring service may call 2059 or 7194.

Mr. Ruth reported that approximately 25 tons of salvaged tin cans were collected during the last period and will be added to the 10 tons left from the previous collection and shipped the first of the week to the Vulcan Detinning Co., Pittsburgh, Pa.

REDS DISBAND PARTY IN U.S.

Browder Moves for Action and Urges Reelection of President Roosevelt.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20 — The Communist party of the United States, in existence for 25 years, voted today to dissolve as a political party. A new non-party organization will be formed.

Earl Browder, the party general secretary, made the motion to disband prior to delivering a national convention keynote speech in which he called for the reelection of President Roosevelt.

The motion was carried unanimously after being seconded by delegates from New York, Illinois and California.

The Browder motion called for the appointment of a committee to liquidate the party's affairs and dispose of its property "and to turn over any surplus that may remain to any organizations or organizations as, in their opinion, are devoted to our country's winning of the war in which it is presently engaged and in the achievement of a durable peace."

The convention opened in the flag-draped ballroom of the Riverside Plaza hotel with an announced attendance of 402 delegates from 44 states. Behind the speaker's platform was an enlarged picture of President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill and Premier Stalin which was taken at the Teheran conference.

A placard proclaimed "national unity for victory, security and a durable peace." National Chairman William Z. Foster presided.

Keynoting the party's national convention, Browder, who sought the presidency himself in 1936 and 1940, said in his prepared address that the President's retirement now "would be a disaster for our country."

Browder's statement meant the Communists would go into a presidential election without a candidate of their own for the first time since they entered the national political field as a party in 1932.

5TH WAR LOAN SALES PLANS MADE HERE

Committee Decides on Strictly Personal Solicitation.

Marion county's participation in the Fifth War Loan drive to open June 12 will be limited to "straight selling," the executive committee of the Marion County War Finance committee decided at a meeting yesterday.

The committee took the position that it would not sponsor any special sales activities outside of thorough canvassing and individual contacting of Marion county residents and indicated it would encourage that type of sales methods on the part of all groups and business and industrial concerns.

Although special activities in past campaigns were praised for having helped stimulate public interest in the war bond drives, and served a good purpose, the committee members said they feel Marion county resident are well aware of the need for backing up the war effort with war bond purchases, and that Marion county's big quota, the largest it has ever had, can be met if workers will contact every worker and every home to enlist support of the drive.

The committee put its approval on plans for a kick-off rally Monday night, June 12, in The Star auditorium for workers in all divisions of the campaign. Prior to that rally, the various campaign divisions will hold separate meetings to outline their working plans and distribute supplies.

INVASION WEATHER

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 19 — The sun shone and the temperature rose steadily today over the Dover straits after a chilly night. The sea was smooth, there being only a light easterly breeze. The sky was cloudless but haze limited visibility at sea level. During the night the barometer moved back slightly. Today's high tides at Dover and Calais come at 11:40 a. m. and 11:53 p. m.

U. S., AND RAF PLANES BLAST NAZI RAIL LINES

Americans Over France in Strength Today After British Night Raid.

By The Associated Press

LONDON, May 20 — Well over 2,500 planes and nearly 3,000 tons of bombs the Allies threw a new pattern of destruction on Hitler's west wall defenses and the railroads and airfields behind them today as the renewed pressure of attacks to shatter it through a second day.

Flying Fortresses and Liberators, over 250 strong, hit at three German airfields and railroad yards in France, including the Villacoublay and Orly airdromes near Paris, plus repair facilities at Champagne and the railway yards at Reims, a U. S. communique announced. The Americans lost 20 fighters and two bombers while shooting down two enemy fighters.

The American bombers were escorted by 350 to 1,000 Thunderbolts, Lightnings and Mustangs in the powerful sweep a few hours after RAF heavy night bombers had hit four railroad objectives in France.

The Berlin radio had indicated earlier that allied fleets also were over Germany today in a fast follow through to the RAF's blow at rail networks in Boulogne, Orleans, Lemans and Tours, all in occupied France.

It was estimated the allies had thrown 2,000 planes at German defenses since midnight, most of them against targets in occupied France.

The unusually large number of fighters accompanying the light force of heavy bombers in the morning mission indicated air force headquarters either anticipated heavier resistance from the Germans or planned possibly an ambitious ground strafing assault coordinated with the bombardment.

RAF Out in Strength

The air ministry's communique reported British bombers over France "in great strength" indicating possibly 750 heavy bombers were used and more than 3,000 long tons of explosives dropped.

In addition military objectives on the west coast of France were bombed. Fast flying Mosquitoes also attacked the German city of Cologne.

Seven aircraft were reported missing in the night's operations.

This morning wave after wave of allied aircraft crossed the Dover strait in hazy sunshine to renew the attack against German-occupied Europe. The German radio indicated some already had reached the reich, warning of enemy fighter already over western Germany and going deeper.

The Mediterranean army air force sent heavy bombers, strongly escorted by fighters, against ports and bridges in northern Italy, while medium and light bombers operated behind the Hitler line.

Great waves of RAF night bombers followed up the pounding given Berlin and Brunswick yesterday by 1,500 American bombers and fighters, who shot down 125 German planes at a cost of 26 bombers and nine fighters.

A German news broadcast claimed 71 American planes, mostly four-engined bombers, were downed.

Orleans 77 miles from Paris on the Loire river, has one of the chief railway junction of France in the suburbs of Les Aubrais.

Movie With Scenes in Marion To Have First Showing Here

Marion, the city that provided much of the locale for the movie, "Home in Indiana," will have a two-day jump on the rest of the nation in viewing the picture when it makes its debut this month.

J. J. Huebner, manager of the Ohio theater, announced this morning he has been given a two-week booking for the picture starting June 14, a date that is at least two days earlier than any of the other cities in the three-state premiere area embracing Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

Mr. Huebner and other theater men saw an advance private showing of the picture in Cleveland Thursday and he reported Marion scenes figure prominently in the show, a two-hour feature in technicolor. Virtually all of the race action and much of the dialogue have Marion as the locale, and the climax of the picture comes in scenes taken at the Marion fairgrounds where a movie troupe worked for two weeks last summer.

The movie will be shown here at regular prices.

Missing Two Years; Now Declared Dead

Sgt. Elwin C. Jones, Caledonia soldier declared officially dead after being missing two years, follows in the fall of Corregidor in pictorial report. Details of a war department notice sent to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Jones, appeared in Thursday's Star. He was a member of a tank battalion was a graduate of Caledonia High school and a former Erie railroad worker. Two brothers are in service.

LARUE PILOT DIES IN ACTION

Lt. J. A. Clement Community's First War Victim; Killed Over Italy.

Lt. James A. Clement, 26, the first LaRue resident to die in this war, was killed in action May 1, according to word received last night by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Emery Clement.

A telegram received from the war department in Washington stated that Lt. Clement had been killed in action over Italy May 1. He was a pilot in a light fighter squadron based on Sardinia. The telegram stated details of his death would follow later.

He entered service in March, 1941 and received his wings at Phoenix, Ariz., in April, last year. He left this country last September, a few days after his marriage to Miss Pauline Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Johnson of near Mt. Victory.

Lt. Clement was born Jan. 12, 1918, Hepburn. He was graduated from Kenton High school. His parents came to LaRue from Kenton eight years ago. A letter received by his parents two weeks ago was written on April 30, the day before he was killed.

Lt. Clement was employed at the Marion Army Air Force depot before he entered service. He last visited home in April, 1943, after he had received his pilot's wings.

MARION SOLDIER INJURED IN ACTION

Sgt. Ernest Davis Seriously Hurt in Pacific Area.

Sgt. Ernest Davis, 24, of Marion has been reported seriously injured in action according to word received here Wednesday by an aunt, Mrs. Ida Greene of 938 Bennett street. His father, M. G. Davis now living in Cincinnati, was notified of his son's condition the previous day. His mother is in Columbus.

According to the communication from the war department, Sgt. Davis was injured April 24. The last time the family heard from him, he was stationed in Australia.

In service a little more than two years, he has been overseas for about 18 months.

Prior to his induction, he was employed at the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and lived on Commercial street. He also attended school here. His name was mentioned just recently in the "Ten Years Ago" column on The Star's editorial page as being one of the contestants in the city marble tournament.

All Poppies Sold First Day of Legion Women

Workers of the American Legion Auxiliary realized their hopes Friday when the last poppy was sold last night at 7 p. m. Proceeds amounted to $550.09, Mrs. J. A. Dripps, chairman, announced today. A few dollars are still to be turned in, she said, but the amount is already $45 more than proceeds from last year's sale.

The money received annually is turned in for welfare work for veterans of both World Wars and their families.

NAZIS DRIVEN BACK TO NEW DEFENSE WALL

Rapid Advance of Allies Forces German Retreat in Southern Section.

By The Associated Press

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NAPLES, May 20—Allied troops have seized a string of the strongest fortifications of the Hitler line and in vigorous advance are driving the Nazis back along the entire lower half of the Italian front to yet a third defense wall, it was announced today.

Headquarters declared the Germans now were being forced back upon the "switch line" running southwest from Pico in the center to Terracina on the coast—a pullback that would make a wide swing of the southern Nazi front to the southwest from Pico as a hinge.

(The German high command announced the loss of Campodimele near the center, 11 miles south and slightly west of Pico, and within a few miles of the "switch line" itself.)

Assaulting the sagging Hitler line, Americans on the south won Itri and Gaeta, the French punched deeper in the middle, and the Eighth army on the northern flank shook the Hitler line even in the Liri valley by putting under shattering attack the town of Aquino and the mountain stronghold of Pontecorvo—already in effect outflanked by the French.

Much Booty Taken

Huge stores of booty were encountered by the Allies, and more than 5,500 Nazis have been captured in this offensive which is smashing ever closer to the Fifth army forces on the Anzio beachhead.

(An NBC broadcast said Allied forces had captured Monte Piazzo four miles north of Itri.)

Terracina on the coastal end of the switch line is 20 miles west of Mormia, which had been the southern anchor of the Hitler line.

The Americans captured both the vital road junction of Itri on the Appian way and the seaport of Gaeta around which the Nazis had clustered the greatest concentration of artillery yet encountered in Italy.

At Terracina, on the third line which the Germans have been forced to fall back upon, Allied warships shelled the town and roadways, the navy announced. Many fires were started after a dump was hit.

(The London radio, in a broadcast heard in New York, said the Fifth army fighting its way through the Hitler line was "a little more than 20 miles from the Anzio beachhead perimeter.

(The Swiss radio, quoting reports from Bari, said Allied troops have entered the province of Rome.

(Whether the broadcast indicated any significant new Allied gain was not immediately clear.

(On the Anzio bridgehead, Fifth army forces have been in the province of Rome for weeks. The provincial boundary hits the west coast at Terracina some 15 or 20 miles beyond the last reported Allied position on the main battlefront. The boundary running inland is well in advance of positions reported yesterday.)

Planes Hit Communications

Allied planes, pursuing their campaign to disrupt the flow of supplies to the German front, attacked the Italian west coast ports of La Spezia, Genoa and Livorno and several railway bridges in northern Italy.

Describing the determined Allied ground drive, the communique said:

"Giving the enemy no respite, the Allied armies in Italy have pressed forward with great vigor all along the battlefront and the battle for the Adolf Hitler line has begun.

"This swift movement, despite difficulties of terrain, has prevented the enemy from stabilizing his foremost line south of the Liri river.

"The troops of the Fifth army have already captured commanding features in this sector. The enemy is therefore now being forced back upon the switch line which runs approximately from Pico to Terracina. This switch line protects the flank of the enemy line across the Liri valley.

"The Eighth army now is engaged in heavy fighting on the Adolf Hitler line all along their front."

Germans Out-Fought

Out-maneuvered, out-generalled and out-fought since the beginning of the current offensive, the Nazis recoiled under fresh blows of the embattled Allies. The position of the entire German Tenth army south of Rome was jeopardized.

The total count of prisoners for the offensive passed the 5,500 mark, and hundreds more were

Collett Now "Lonely Old Man" Of Ohio Prison Death Row

By GWEN RIGGLE

COLUMBUS, O., May 19 — James W. Collett, a once prominent and prosperous Clinton county hog-breeder, is now the "lonely old man" of Ohio penitentiary's death row, where he awaits execution for the triple McCoy murders.

Warden Frank D. Henderson reported today that since imprisonment of the 60-year-old man March 31, Collett's only visitor was his wife, Laura, April 24.

The warden said visitors were permitted daily except Sunday and added:

"In Collett's case I would be willing to waive all regulations and allow his family to see him outside regular visiting hours and also on Sunday but no one has asked to do so."

Collett's 29-year-old son, Thomas, has not seen the condemned man since his trial last March at which time he cried out "he was the best father a boy ever had."

Now No. 81269

Collett—now No. 81269—is confined in a cell five feet six inches wide and 10 feet long, just 200 yards from the electric chair where he was scheduled to die July 26.

(Collett's conviction has been appealed, however, which automatically stays his execution until a ruling is handed down by the higher court.)

A runway, five feet wide and 35 feet long connects his cell with that of the only other occupant of death row, 18-year-old Henry Hagert, convicted slayer of 12-year-old twin boys in Cleveland.

The warden said Collett was "turned out for exercise" in the runway twice a day.

The white-haired, frail farmer has required considerable medical attention and invariably wears his high, plastic neck brace to relieve an old spinal injury, the warden added.

Not in Prison Uniform.

He is not required to wear a prison uniform.

Almost two months of confinement has changed Collett from a cautious "problem child" to a docile inmate, the warden said.

"At first he was inclined to be troublesome and demanded special favors," he explained. "After he found he would be treated no differently than any other prisoner he quieted down.

"He has developed a religious streak," the warden continued, "and spends most of his time praying and thumbing through the bible he brought with him. He seldom talks and only occasionally plays the radio his lawyer sent him.

"He seems like any lonely old man."

Collett was the first Ohioan ever tried on three first degree murder charges simultaneously.

He was convicted by a Fayette county jury March 10 of fatally shooting Elmer McCoy, Mrs. Forrest McCoy and their 22-year-old daughter, Mildred on the McCoy farm near Washington C. H., last Thanksgiving eve. McCoy was the brother of Collett's wife.

ATTENTION PARENTS

It has been the custom of Lords to celebrate each year with a gigantic Anniversary Sale! However, this year, in compliance with our government's request to eliminate special sales, we at Lords have decided to forego our usual Anniversary Sale.

In place of our customary Anniversary Sale we have decided to send 50 under-privileged children (aged 12 to 16) to Boy Scout Camp, all expenses paid, for the entire week of July 2 to 9.

How To Make Application!

Submit the name and address of any under-privileged child you think worthy of this all expense paid week's vacation to any principal or teacher at any Marion school.

The Honorable Judge W. Dexter Hazen will select 50 children from the applicants.

Absolutely No Purchases Are Necessary for Your Child or Neighbor's Child To Be Considered Eligible for This Vacation Trip

Police Doff Jackets

Another sign of spring. Many of the patrolmen have shed their jackets. It's a good inning Fred Norton didn't doff his a day earlier, because the jacket just covered a very thin spot in his trousers. Must be his motorcycle riding that does it.

No News Is Good News

Permission was given by Patrolman Jack Underhill to write an item about him but we can't find anything to write about. Wonder if he is just a good behave-er or if, as his fellow workers claim, just cautious.

Tables Turned

People rarely realize how well they have drilled politeness into their offsprings until the small son or daughter catches you up on a burp and demands an "excuse me" or refuses to get something unless a "please" is added or hangs on to the article until they hear a "thank you." Sort of embarrassing coming from the little ones.

Losing Out

So many former drivers are heard to remark that it has been so long since they drove a car they wonder if they still know how.

Signs of the Times

Remember a few years ago when the most expensive article in a jewelry store window was hardly ever priced over $150 and clothes in display windows were priced usually under $10? Now you can look in windows for jewelry and see tags as high as $1,750 . . . and clothes—whew!

Not Too Chummy

One of the more unusual pets we've seen recently was at an East Center street home, where a groundhog sits and views the passing public with the manner of a reigning monarch reviewing his troops. If pedestrians happen to come too close, he will forget his supercilious attitude, flatten out and run for the nearest cover.

Australians Favor Granting Bases To U. S. After the War

By GEORGE GALLUP
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion

PRINCETON, N. J., May 20—Evidence that the majority of people in Australia are looking to the United States for armed aid in future years as well as during this war is revealed in a survey just completed by Australian Public Opinion Polls.

This study, conducted throughout Australia by an affiliate of the American institute of Public Opinion, found that approximately two out of every three voters are in favor of letting the American navy and airforces use bases in Australia after the war.

However, the number who favor this arrangement is not as large now as it was one year ago. A similar survey conducted in May 1943, found a vote of nearly eight to two in favor of granting post-war bases to the Americans.

The issue put to Australian voters was as follows:

"It has been suggested that we should let the American navy and airforces use bases in Australia after the war. Do you favor or oppose this suggestion?"

	Today	Year Ago
FAVOR	65%	77%
OPPOSE	20	15
UNDECIDED	15	8

All those in favor of granting bases were asked, in the most recent survey, whether this arrangement should be permanent, or whether the bases should simply be leased for a period of time. The weight of sentiment was strongly in favor of leasing.

Building Quiz

Q.: My bathroom is now done in white enamel, and I wish to enamel it again this spring. Can I enamel on enamel? Will it stay on all right, or will I have to put a coat of flat on first?

A.: The enamel should be slightly roughened with sandpaper before painting over it; if sanding is not done, the new enamel will not adhere well, but will chip or peel off. After sanding, wipe off the dust. If your new finish is to be darker or lighter color, you will need to apply an enamel under-coater first.

Q.: How can I patch up a floor that has splintered by bed rollers? The floor has not been varnished for a number of years.

A.: The best thing to do is to have the floor refinished by a floor contractor. The rollers (or casters) now on the bed should be replaced by the ball-bearing type with a composition wheel. If the bed does not need to be moved every day for making up, it may suffice to use the glass cups that are intended for the protection of floors from the legs of furniture. If you cannot get the services of a floor contractor at this time, you can do a patch job by scraping and sandpapering the damaged parts of the floor, dusting up, and then refinishing with floor varnish or wax, or in whatever way will match the rest of the old floor finish.

Q.: We have had leaks around two dormer windows ever since the house was built. The contractor has caulked these windows in every way possible, but the leaks still continue. Can you advise?

A.: It is my belief that the flashings are of poor quality or the joints were never flashed. You should have a competent builder check this. Leakage may be at the point where the roof of the dormer and house roof are joined; flashings at these points are quite necessary.

THE GARDEN CLINIC

By VICTOR H. RIES
O. S. U. Extension Floriculturist

Q.: I wrote you recently about the small white bugs in the containers in which I keep my African violets. Following your instructions, I believe I am gradually eliminating them, although I have used almost half a bottle of nicotine sulphate.

Now I should like to ask for more help. We have recently bought a home and find so many flowers and shrubs that need care. Having lived all our lives in a place where we had no room for them, we know nothing about their care. There are two large beds of tulips and a row of them the length of our house and I don't believe they have had any care for over 10 years. Do I take them up after they bloom this year and may I plant any other flowers in the bed, in case I leave them in the ground. There are 14 large groups of peonies and I am told they are too much in the shade, being under four trees. However, they do bloom beautifully and receive some sunshine. Also we have quite a lot of rambler roses, planted on a slight hill. They were put there I believe to help keep the soil from washing away. They have never had any care and have run wild. Last year they had a mold on them and very few blooms. Do you trim them to the ground in the spring and what can we do with all the leaves that have accumulated in among them for the past 11 years? Our soil is very poor, it seems all clay and our city is all hills and ravines, so it seems to wash all the top soil away.

A.: Tulips can be left alone as long as they are blooming properly. When the flowers get small or they fail to bloom, then they need digging and resetting. This can be done as soon as the foliage yellows and dies down. I would recommend that they be replanted immediately, rather than leave them lacking around the garage or cellar during the summer. As long as your peonies are blooming properly, I wouldn't worry about them, because as soon as you dig, divide, and reset them, there will be a set-back for several years. I imagine that the rose planted on your hill is the old fashioned Dorothy Perkins. They are certainly vigorous and probably more susceptible to mildew, what you call mold, than any other variety. Once they become well established, as yours probably are, about the only thing you can do is to get in and cut them clear to the ground. Of course, you will have no blooms that year, but after that you will have. The leaves that have accumulated among them make a good mulch so need not be removed. You could control the mildew by dusting the roses with sulphur about every two weeks during the early part of the summer.

Q. Will you please identify the enclosed plant? Some of these leaves have light colored stripes. Does it have any bloom? D. W. G., Fredericktown, Ohio.

A. The leaf that you sent for identification is the small plant which Gracie Fields has recently popularized with the song about her Aspidistra. It is an old fashioned house plant that is able to abide tough conditions as very few others can. Although normally the leaves are all green, occasionally you will find the variegated form or it. If you keep it well watered in the spring, it will occasionally bloom. The flowers are tiny and red, practically without stems. When you see the flower you will realize it is related to our native wild ginger.

More Wings of Peace

THERE [illegible] transport [illegible] movement [illegible] the passengers [illegible] more and more [illegible] and [illegible] and more [illegible] and [illegible].

At the outbreak of the war the government took over many of the civilian planes and at the same time production was increased until it became almost impossible for the civilian, no difference how important his trip, to get a seat on the plane. Production suffered because men with important war jobs to do on a hurry were left on the ground while some other traveler with a priority took a seat on the plane.

The life of a giant plane in military service is relatively short and many are grounded while they still contain many thousands of miles of safe civilian travel. In other cases great ships of the air are outmoded but they can do good service back home until something better can be provided.

At the same time the nation had many fliers who because of age war weariness or other reason can not fly in combat but who are perfectly qualified for civilian flying.

Put all these facts together and you have the opportunity to restore and increase the usefulness of the civilian passenger air lines to get busy war production executives to their destination in a hurry and to enable more service men to get home on that ineffably important furlough which may be too short to allow a visit with the home folks if the soldier must rely on the unpredictable wartime ground transportation or on the helpfulness of motorists who happen to be going his way.

Lend-Lease Footnote

IN THE spring a young man's fancy in America used to turn to thoughts of taking his best girl for a ride. But now most of the young men are in the fighting forces—and their best girls are waiting for them back home.

They are gone, but not forgotten. And they haven't changed, at least as far as the driving is concerned. In Britain alone, some 1,000 damage claims are filed each week against American "cowboy" drivers. The situation is so bad that from now on it is going to be handled by lend-lease. Britain will pay for damage done by American soldiers, the United States will meet claims in this country for damage done by British subjects. For once, no one will dare to say that America was out-bargained. One of those "cowboys" in a jeep is the equal of any 10 Britons in a fender-smashing contest.

Rabbits Prefer Lettuce

THE natural desire of the party in power to stay in power with a minimum of interference—as natural as a rabbit's preference for lettuce—is illustrated in a poll being taken by United States News on the question of limiting this year's presidential campaign.

Republican spokesmen, of course, want to have full discussion and an aggressive campaign. Democrats, on the other hand, think it would be a good idea to hold the discussing and campaigning to a minimum. A distinguished exception is James A. Farley, who says in his judgment full and free discussion is "one of the things we are fighting to preserve." Harrison E. Spangler, chairman of the Republican national committee, believes "we would be derelict in our stated duty to the American people if we agreed to any limitation in the forthcoming campaign."

The question of limitation is not wholly academic. While an agreement on limitation is out of the question, it is probable that if Mr. Roosevelt is the Democratic candidate he will conduct his campaign largely on a platform of preoccupation with the responsibilities of his office. The limitation will be circumstantial. While the electorate does not expect Mr. Roosevelt to go barnstorming if he is the candidate, any refusal to engage in the campaign beyond the point of wartime limitations on his time would have to be construed as evasion of his political responsibility as the only qualified defender of the New Deal doctrine.

So They Say—

The German planes seem to fly in twos or fours, strung out in a line, and keep right behind their leader, no matter what happens—as if they are afraid to wander off.—Capt. Don S. Gentile, a leading American ace.

The average GI will be disciplined, but he won't submit to blind regimentation. He's got to know the why of things.—Brig. Gen. Bennett B. Brickner, after war front tour.

Disunity among us is the hope of our enemies in dragging this war out until we settle for a negotiated half-peace, a half-peace that would give them the final victory in the next war that they are already planning.—Undersecretary of War Patterson.

The people of this country will demand this year a complete disclosure of the position of both political parties on important questions and only the party that makes its position clear will be entitled to the confidence of the people.—Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio.

Today and Tomorrow

Philadelphia Conference on Full Employment and Raising Living Standards Praised.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

A CONFERENCE of men and [illegible] labor and government in many [illegible] recently in Philadelphia [illegible] prospect of what the [illegible] of employment and the [illegible] standards of living.

[illegible] may [illegible] of business and it are [illegible] they are merely [illegible] and what is [illegible] from [illegible] [illegible] and conservative production [illegible] from the war is [illegible] no matter which party is in office the paramount question will be [illegible] and maintain [illegible] and a rising standard of [illegible] It is not [illegible] [illegible] the economy, particularly [illegible] they proceed to [illegible]

[illegible] a new thing in our [illegible] politics, and indeed it [illegible] in the history of the [illegible] Men have always, of course, declared unemployment was wasted good and profitable [illegible] and they have struggled and fought for it. But in this country, bloody and violent though it has been, mankind has made an [illegible] discovery. It is that involuntary mass unemployment in a modern industrial nation is an unnecessary and preventable evil.

Public Experts Remedies

Economists, industrial leaders, public officials are by no means entirely agreed which among the many measures are the best. But never again will they or the mass of the people accept the view, which was the common view 30 years ago, that public policy has nothing to do with and can do nothing effective about the maintenance of reasonably full employment. In the two great wars of our generation and in the depression of the [illegible] years it has been demonstrated, we may hope [illegible] the realization of this is not [illegible] that mass unemployment [illegible] the evidence and it is not, therefore, inevitable.

[illegible] principles of [illegible] are [illegible] to organize them, [illegible] agreed. We are [illegible] to use [illegible] the [illegible] and engineering arts, the arts of [illegible] and [illegible] that is to say, the arts which [illegible] and [illegible] the [illegible] and the [illegible].

But it is [illegible] that large nations with big resources, skilled labor, and progressive management [illegible] of their investment on it, regulate the [illegible] booms and depressions, the public [illegible] no more [illegible] a failure to apply [illegible] they avoid to create [illegible] failure to use [illegible] and prevail.

The International Labor Organization has no power whatsoever. It cannot legislate. It cannot appropriate a dime. It cannot bind any government to do any particular thing. Yet it has spoken with great authority, with the same kind of great authority which a convention of doctors would have if they declared that the means for dealing with an epidemic existed.

Important Cooperation

We have here an exhibit of international cooperation which is profoundly important. For it shows that the inner problem is not how to persuade the nations to pledge themselves to do things they regard as burdensome and contrary to their interests, it is to discern their true national interest so that when they serve themselves, they are good neighbors.

Thus, to maintain full employment in the United States is unmistakably an American interest. If we do not, we shall suffer deeply among ourselves. Yet if we do maintain it by measures which really work over a long period of time, we shall be doing the first, most necessary, thing to meet our international responsibility for a prosperous world economy.

That is what the Philadelphia charter has to say to us.

There is no basic conflict between the national interests of the American people and their international interests and duties. There are conflicts due to short-sightedness, to being penny wise and pound foolish, to the pressure of special interests that do not always understand their true interests. These conflicts can be overriden because they arise not from the nature of things but from a lack of the knowledge which already exists.

Ravello Untouched

By The Associated Press

RAVELLO, Italy—This historic town, ancient watering spot for Roman senators, priests and artists, has been untouched by war although but a dozen miles from the blood-stained beaches of Salerno.

Ravello attracted many famous people. The Normans built several watchtowers and St. Francis of Assisi meditated here. In one of the grottoes Wagner wrote part of the opera "Parsifal."

Greta Garbo visited here six years ago with Leopold Stokowski. She explained then that with war imminent she wanted to see Ravello before it might be destroyed.

"On Wagon" Since 90

By The Associated Press

TUCSON, Ariz.—John E. Lindley quit drinking whiskey at 90 and now at 100 he thinks maybe two pounds of coffee a week is too much. Lindley became a centenarian recently and celebrated by taking care of his chickens and dog.

Born in Lancaster, Pa., Lindley cast aside his glasses ten years ago and says he reads his Bible daily without seeing aid. He says his father, a Quaker, lived to be 116 before he died in Ohio.

"Competition" Ended

By The Associated Press

NAMPA, Idaho—After weeks of debate, the city council passed an ordinance prohibiting midnight movies on Saturdays. Church and parent-teacher groups, backers of the law, contended if the children stayed at home Saturday night they would be more likely to attend Sunday school.

Our Bill of Rights

From The New York Times

IN A TIME when bills of rights and charters, of liberty occupy the minds of statesmen and plain folk the world over, a cross-section of the electorate of this nation is asked by the National Opinion Research Center of Denver "What do you know about the American Bill of Rights?" Twenty-three per cent of those questioned say they have never heard of it, or aren't sure whether they have or not. Thirty-nine per cent have heard of it, but don't know what it means or where it can be found. Fifteen per cent give vague and incorrect accounts of its origin and its contents. Only 23 per cent have reasonably accurate ideas.

Certainly this is a time when it is especially important for us all to know more about our Bill of Rights. For this is a time when tyranny would destroy human rights everywhere and humanity rises in arms to save those rights, or to win them, for itself and for posterity. To refresh our memories, what are some of those rights that we have and others have not? The right to speak and to print, the right to assemble and petition, the right to worship as conscience bids. The right to be secure against despotic invasion of person or property. The right to fair trial under law before being deprived of life, liberty or possessions, and the right to be spared from cruelty. Those rights, so surely ours that we scarcely heed them, are denied today to millions of our fellowmen and will be denied to us if tyranny prevails. It is to defend those rights that we send our youth into battle and pour out our wealth.

It is a good time for all of us to turn to the Constitution and read thoughtfully the first 10 amendments wherein our rights are set forth. We shall learn that with our rights go obligations, one of these being to respect the rights of our fellow-Americans, and that it is only when their rights are respected that our own rights are safe.

Our Turn at Guam

Turn about in the Pacific Islands fighting finds Japs on Uncle Sam's Guam repeatedly bombed by Americans flying 1,200 miles westward from their new bases in the Jap-mandated Marshall Islands.

Guam, acquired by the United States from Spain with the Philippines in 1898, was a sleepy island visited a few times yearly by copra steamers until China Clipper service planes made it a station in the late 1930's, says the National Geographic society. Largest and southernmost of the Marianas, it lies 1,589 miles east of Manila, 1,506 miles southwest of Wake Island, 3,800 miles from Honolulu.

Guam is forty miles south of Rota, its nearest Marianas neighbor. It was seized by the Japs from its small garrison of U. S. military and construction men five days after the Pearl Harbor attack. Because the United States honored terms of the Washington Conference, its defenses were less in 1941 than in 1920.

Guam is about three times as large as the District of Columbia. It is nearly 30 miles long in a north-south direction, is eight miles wide at its ends but less than four miles near its middle. Heights of 1,330 feet cover its southern half, while the north is plateau land right to coastal cliffs and averages 400 feet.

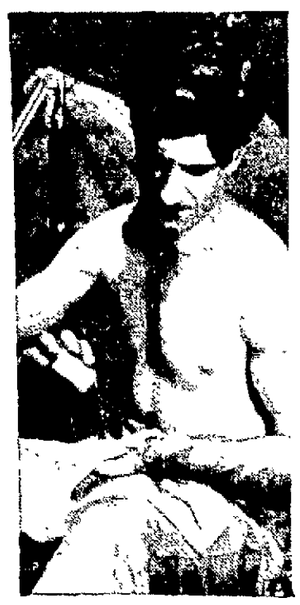
War's New Medical Weapons



DDT: Like TNT to lice.

By SCHUYLER ALLMAN
Associated Press Writer

WARS have a way of getting themselves waged in the pestholes of the world and so medicine came to army when World War II thundered near.

When the Japanese captured the source of the world's quinine supply in the East Indies, experimentors counter-attacked with a mass-produced synthetic — also home-run some reports as good as quinine.

Body Destroys Parasites

Neither stops the sinister parasites which enter the blood stream when the Anopheles mosquito bites. They control the attack until the body itself rallies to destroy the invader.

Recently two chemists, Dr. Robert B. Woodward of Harvard and Dr. William E. Doering of Columbia, made quinine synthetically but it is uncertain whether it can yet be made on a large scale.

Bacillary dysentery is so firmly checked by the sulfas, particularly sulfaguanadine, that this old enemy is no longer the menace it was in World War I.

Vaccines have been developed for yellow fever, typhus, cholera, plague and tetanus, and entire armies are dosed with them.

Nor has medicine eased its endless campaign against the carriers of disease. The mosquito, flea and body louse have been attacked by repellents and insecticides, including an insect bomb that sprays insecticide and clears whole areas of mosquitoes.

DDT Blasts Lice

The lice that carry typhus were badly beaten when they launched an epidemic in Italy.

An insecticide as formidable as its name—dichloro-diphenyl-trichloro-ethane—smote lice with terrible suddenness and there were no reports of typus in the American army in Italy.

Called "DDT" for short, this insecticide proved so harmless to man that the Army issued it in powder form to be dusted on clothing.

Plea for Male Nurses

By The Associated Press

FIFTH ARMY ANZIO BEACHHEAD, Italy—A six foot, bass-voiced, hairy chested sergeant claimed the cause of equal rights for men in the Army Nursing Corps.

"Don't get me wrong—I'm not mad at the girls," groaned Alfred Eugene Riley, 24, of Hernando, Miss., "but being a registered nurse myself I'd like to see male nurses get a break."

After having worked for a year as industrial hospital nursing superintendent, Riley entered the service.

"When I joined the Army I got 50 bucks a month as a private," said Riley. "When my three sisters were inducted as nurses they started out as second lieutenant's at $180 a month. All of us had the same qualifications."

The Once Over

By H. I. PHILLIPS

The Suit of the Month

A MAN has sued an author and publisher on the ground that a book was not as represented. He wins the Suit of the Month award for May.

• • •

The plaintiff is Lewis R. Lucot, a lawyer, book lender and a man who wants everything the law calls for.

• • •

He sues Arthur Train, Scribners and the editor of Saturday Evening Post on the claim that Mr. Train's book is not all that it is purported to be. If this suit gets encouragement there will be thousands of American authors in humble and forsaken garrets with their attorneys.

• • •

The courts may think they have been busy, but they ain't seen anything yet.

• • •

If all book readers who don't think they got their money's worth get their day in court there won't be a dozen authors in the country unentangled in legal proceedings.

• • •

The plaintiff in this case says Mr. Train's book was represented as being an autobiography of a real person, when it was fiction. His contention is that there is no difference between a book, a bottle of horse liniment or a dozen eggs when it comes to misrepresentation.

• • •

True perhaps, but you can tell earlier about the eggs, and they are not $3.50 a dozen yet.

• • •

Mr. Lucot sues for himself and 55,000 other book buyers, he says, and he asks refunds from 50 cents to a dollar per copy. The book was a $3.50 book. We are with the plaintiff in his touchiness about the $3.50. When a book costs that much money a buyer should get some meat, butter and gasoline with it.

• • •

It will be noted this litigation that while the author, publishing-house and publishing-house editor are sued, the publicity manager is not. He is doing okay.

• • •

Book circles are agog. There were rumors today that Betty Smith had been sued by a customer who claimed he thought "A Tree Grows in Brooklyn" was a publication on landscape gardening.

• • •

Elmer Twitchell is suing Somerset Maugham on the ground he bought "Razor Edge" as a treatise on shaving, and Ima Dodo is seeking her lawyer about proceedings against Mr. Marquand for his book "So Little Time." The saleslady sold it to her as a technical book about grandfather-clocks.

• • •

We await the transcript of a court proceeding:

Q.—You are the author of the book in question?

A.—Guilty as charged.

Q.—Are you familiar with the allegations in this suit against you?

A.—No, but I'm familiar with the sales figures since the action was filed and I wish to thank everybody concerned.

Q.—Did you have any help on this book?

A.—Not until the plaintiff sued me.

Q.—Do you know the plaintiff?

A.—No, but I have developed a great regard for him.

Q.—Are you willing to give him his money back?

A.—Not only that, but I will put him on the payroll.

VERDICT

Judge.—The decision of the court is that this suit should never have been brought.

Author.—So you're unfair to authors, eh!

Without Cream

CONSOLIDATED Edison stockholders who wanted a limit put on pensions to high salaried officials were defeated at a meeting the other day. As a fellow who held Consolidated Edison for years and saw it go down to $21 a share we think the stockholder is entitled to a pension, but we will settle for a cup of coffee and a night's lodging (with or without gas or electricity.)

• • •

Incidentally something pretty novel was introduced at this stockholders' meeting. A microphone was installed on the platform and all stockholders having anything to say were invited to speak into it for voice emphasis. In addition attendants raised placards, just as in radio studios, to guide speakers as they spoke into the mike. Everything passed off nicely well. Luckily not a stockholder advanced to the platform, cleared his throat and started singing, "I dreamt I dwelt in marble halls."

Keeping Fit

BY TRUMAN TWILL

We get an idea occasionally of what the female will go through for the sake of keeping in shape. Besides photographic evidence in the magazines (isn't it a shame grandpa couldn't have lived to see it!) any ordinary observer knows what goes on in beauty parlors, for instance.

Or he has heard the inside dirt on who goes where to get her figure pummeled and goes on in little rooms officiated over by burly body thumpers. Perhaps he has heard thumps and grunts in his own home from behind closed doors where some over-padded doll with sagging sawdust was throwing herself up against the ball and catching herself on the rebound for dear old muscle tone.

This sort of thing gets around. There's no secret about it. For instance, in a moment of weakness we picked up a little pep sheet for the girls called "She" and gave it a casual snoot to see what the people on the other side of the partition are talking about. There was this article about not letting appearance be a war casualty.

Get up 10 minutes earlier in the morning it urged, but before you get out of bed pull in your stomach until you can feel it touch your backbone, then let it out—quick. Then fling off the covers, it said.

But don't get out of bed yet, not until you have stuck your legs straight up in the air and let them down slowly. Remember, all this without any breakfast. Just a fat girl, the four walls and her conscience. But now you can hop out of bed. One, two, three—bong. Yah, fall on your face, hay Susie?

Now reach over real quick and put your hands on the floor without bending your knees. Don't think about your operation. Let everything go black. Try to forget what you are pulling loose. Better stand close to a chair to get yourself pulled back up, so you can see your way to the telephone to call for help.

If you get back up, throw up your hands and reach for the ceiling. Don't expect to get it because that would only leave fingermarks. Then after half a dozen knee bends, which should be easy, you are in shape for another hard day or you have stumbled back to bed and collapsed. This is known as keeping fit.

It is just a sample of what women actually will do, or maybe it is only a sample of what some sadist working at a typewriter for a magazine will do. That would be hard to say. Any man can have a hunch, though, that once a dame's sawdust begins to bulge the only thing that gets her up 10 minutes earlier is a chance to get down a bigger breakfast.

MARIONITE'S BROTHER IN SERVICE KILLED

Homer Dale Miller, Native of Marion, War Victim.

Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Miller of 285 Pennsylvania avenue have received word that Mr. Miller's brother, Homer Dale Miller, machinist's mate second class, "27, was killed "in the line of duty and buried on foreign soil for the duration."

Miller enlisted in 1941 and had been on active duty for more than two years. He was on a destroyer in Atlantic waters.

He was born in Marion but lived in Denver, Colo., most of his life. Mrs. Miller said they had received a V-mail letter dated March 9 on the day before the first notice came informing them he was missing in action. In the letter he revealed his plans to spend his next leave with them. The following day, April 28 a telegram stating he had been killed in action was received.

The brown trout originally came from Europe.

WIFE BECOMES ICE "MAN"

By The United Press

KANSAS CITY, Kan. — Mrs. Ida Lynch, 28, mother of a 22-month-old baby, became one of the nation's few women ice "men" recently when her husband joined the Navy and her father became ill and could not continue running his ice business. Mrs. Lynch had never driven a truck before, but she learned from two teen-age employes. She said she doesn't carry anything but 25-pound cakes of ice, however. The boys do the heavier work.

Navy Recruiter At Marion Promoted

ROY W. HUDSON

Recruiter Roy W. Hudson, specialist first class, who has been attached to the Marion Navy Recruiting Station since last June, will leave next Wednesday to take charge of the Navy Recruiting Station at Defiance, O. Chief John Dugan in charge of the Marion station reported the promotion is in line with Hudson's record of recruiting in the Marion area.

BUCYRUS OFFICER NOW A COLONEL

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, May 20—Bucyrus now boasts a full colonel, Col. Russell J. Caton, Bucyrus physician, who has been in duty with the 37th division in the South Pacific for two years. The promotion was announced in a letter received by friends here today.

Col. Caton has a long military record which started during the first World war in which he was commissioned a captain in the 146th Infantry at the time of his honorable discharge. He saw action at Ypres-Lys and at the Meuse-Argonne.

He was commission a major when the Ohio National Guard was formed here in 1924. When he was assigned to active duty as commanding officer of the medical detachment of the 135th F. A. when it left for camp in 1940. He was promoted to the grade of lieutenant colonel in the medical detachment in May, 1941.

FEARS TAX BURDEN ON U. S. BUSINESS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 20—Business may be unable to bridge the economic gap when government spending drops to a peacetime level if "professional business baiters" carry over present tax rates into the postwar period, Rep. Frank Carlson of Kansas asserted here today.

In an address prepared for Ohio State university's seventh annual institute on accounting, Carlson, a Republican member of the house ways and means committee, said:

"Suppose we let some of our professional business baiters have their way about taxing private industry? Suppose rates which now range up to 95 per cent are carried over into the postwar period?

"How then could our business concerns make up the gap in our economic life which will come about when government spending drops from a war level... to a peacetime level...?"

He predicted the nation would "come out of the war with a debt of three hundred billions," and said it would take three generations "to get a clean slate."

The Kansan also criticized the administration's tax policies.

Wyandot Co. Classes Plan Special Project

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, May 20—The vocational-agricultural classes of Upper Sandusky High school are building, as a summer project, a portable sheep-dipping outfit. They expect to have the movable processing tank ready by June 5, and will then be ready to do custom work for Wyandot county owners.

The plan has been endorsed by County Agent C. R. Crum who is accepting orders at the extension office here and will turn them over to the vocational instructor, John Button.

Custom dipping is generally more economical for the farmer than for each to prepare tank and solution for his own flock and any profit made on the project will go toward assisting the vocational-agricultural program at the high school.

Cantata by Civic Chorus To Be Given Tomorrow Night

"Hymn of Praise" To Be Presented at 8:30 p. m. in Epworth Church.

Final plans have been made for the cantata, "Hymn of Praise," Mendelssohn, to be presented Sunday night at 8:30 o'clock in Epworth Methodist church by the Marion Civic Chorus, under the direction of Homer E. Huffman.

Assisting as guest soloists will be Miss Marjorie Phelps, of Cleveland, soprano, and Howard Jarratt, tenor, of Ohio Wesleyan university, Delaware. Mrs. Earl Hale will be the assisting soloist, and appearing on the program with the Chorus will be the Marion Lecture-Recital club chorus. Accompanists will be Miss Rosaline Manzo, piano, and Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence. The club choir will sing "The Lord's Prayer," by Forsythe.

Doors of the church will open at 8 o'clock. As in former programs by the Chorus there will be no admission charge.

"Hymn of Praise," according to critics, is excelled only by Beethoven's "Ninth Symphony." It was composed by Mendelssohn in 1840 when he was commissioned by the Leipzig authorities to compose the music for the 400th anniversary of the invention of printing. Because of this work he was chosen general superintendent of sacred music throughout the kingdom of Prussia. In 1845 he resigned all positions to devote his entire time to composing and near the close of that year finished his most famous work, the oratorio, "Elijah." Shortly before his death he composed the pathetic violin quartette in F minor which was inspired by the death of his favorite sister.

In the list of persons previously listed as taking part in the presentation of the cantata the name of Mrs. W. S. Sibberson was omitted.

Student committees assisted the chairmen.

Demand Seen for Millions of Radios After War Ends

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20 — The radio industry expects that by the end of this year there will have developed a "pent-up demand" on the part of the public for between 20,000,000 and 25,000,000 broadcast receiving sets.

So comments Larry Gruob, chairman of the Philco board of directors, who said the estimate compared with the all-time high production of 13,000,000 sets in 1941, the last full year the industry had before turning exclusively to war goods.

Personal Mention

Miss Verna Busler left Wednesday night for Charleston, S. C., to join her husband, Elmer Busler, who is stationed at the Naval Air station there. Mrs. Busler has been making her home with her mother-in-law, Mrs. W. W. Premore of 660 Sugar street and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hass of 491 Wilson avenue.

Mrs. Blanche Bain Miller of Lufkin, Texas, has arrived for a two months visit with her sister, Miss Nellie Bain of Baker street.

Mrs. Hattie M. Richards of South High street has returned from a 10-day visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr and Mrs. John J. Damp and family of Tonawanda, N. Y.

New Canning Sugar Ruling Explained

The new canning sugar ruling which requires consumers who need more than 10 pounds of canning sugar per family member, in addition to the 5 pounds on sugar stamp No 40, to apply for a second allotment later in the season, does not change the total amount of canning sugar available to the housewife. It simply means that the canning season has been divided into two sugar periods with a limit of 10 pounds for each person in the family for the first period.

Canning sugar periods in this district are as follows: To July 29, ten pounds per family member; Aug. 1 to Feb. 28, 1945, ten pounds per family member.

Many families may not need more than 10 pounds per person during the entire year, but those who do will be able to get their second allotment after stating that they used their initial allotment for canning purposes. Those who do not need their sugar during the first period may apply for their full twenty pounds during the second period. Those who need only a portion the first period allotment may apply for enough sugar to make up a total canning allotment of 20 pounds (25 pounds with stamp 40) during the second period. Thus a family of four entitled to 40 pounds during the first sugar period, but which only asks for 20 pounds, may receive as much as 60 pounds during the second period if needed for late canning.

If you have already applied for and obtained sugar for canning this year, you will not be eligible to obtain an additional allotment until after Aug. 1, 1944.

The principal reason behind this action is that although approximately the same amount of sugar is being allocated for home canning this year as last, the demand on the 1944 applications is already running much higher. Dividing the canning season into two periods will slow up the rate at which canning sugar is purchased and make it easier to keep enough sugar on hand to meet certificates and stamps throughout the season.

Incidentally, so many people have sent in sugar stamp 37 instead of "spare" stamp 37 with their applications for canning sugar that OPA has decided to invalidate sugar stamp No. 37. It will never be used for any purpose in the future. Spare stamp No. 37—one for each member of the family for whom canning sugar is requested should be attached to the application, OPA Form R-323. OPA adds that when a second canning sugar application is made, no stamps need be attached. But it will be necessary to go to the same board for your second allotment.

DIPLOMAS RECEIVED BY MARTEL SENIORS

Commencement Address Given by Prospect Minister.

Rev. J. R. Wynd of Prospect gave the commencement address for the senior class of the Martel high school last night, speaking on "Success." Paul Dale Price gave the salutatory and Dorothy Jean Sherrock presented the valedictory. County Superintendent of Schools D. T. Mills gave a brief talk, the class was presented by H. H. Moore, school superintendent, and diplomas were awarded by Ward Sharrock, president of the school board.

Music included singing by a mixed quartet, girls' trio, cornet duet by Everett Douce and Carlton Tropf and singing of the national anthem by the audience. Rev. E. Agricola of the Clyde Evangelical and Reformed church gave the invocation and Rev. C. F. Edgar of the Martel Methodist church pronounced benediction.

The auditorium was decorated in the class colors of purple and gold and the class motto, "Life Is a Picture. Paint It Well," above the platform.

Graduates were Mildred Valentine, Dorothy Sharrock, Paul Price and Wesley Sulser.

Returning Airmen Last Ones To Call Themselves Heroes

By The United Press

SANTA MONICA, Cal.—Battle-wise and decorated airmen seldom have stories of adventure to tell. To them, war is routine, and it's a dull routine of C-rations, homesickness and jagged nerves.

There is a constant flow of these men through the Army Air Force redistribution center at Santa Monica. Officers and men go through a processing routine designed to indicate what they're best fitted to do. With the training, knowledge and experience they have gained overseas considered, they are then given a continental U. S. assignment.

During the 10 to 15 days airmen spend at the center, every possible facility lends to their comfort and relaxation. Other than appointments with doctors and counselors, their time is their own and they live very much as if they were civilians.

'Not Much to Tell'

The Santa Monica center consists of six large beach clubs and apartment hotels facing the Pacific.

"I've been trying to figure out when the tides come in and go out," said Capt. Bob Sanders, Abilene, Tex.

He is a bombardier with seven Oak Leaf Clusters to the Air Medal who has spent a year in North Africa, three months in Sicily, and three months in Italy.

"There really isn't much to tell," he said, surprised that anyone would want to know what he did overseas. "I'm not a hero. None of us here are heroes."

Chief Thought Is Home

He is tall, blond, and 23 years old. His first junket after leaving home took him to Cairo.

"The people at home envy us our travels," he said, "but whether you're in Cairo or Sicily, you know you're there to fly 50 missions, and you just want to get them over with and come home."

Capt Sanders began his missions last June and was through in December. Missions last approximately four hours, and spread over seven months, they leave the flyers a good deal of idle time.

Capt Sanders said that most missions are uneventful. You fly over the target, you drop your load of death and destruction, and you get shot at—they're just a part of a routine job.

Draft Board Sticks To Decision To Quit

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 20—Col. C. W. Goble, state selective service director, said the Clinton county's only draft board had advised him it would not reconsider its enmasse resignation.

The board resigned after an exchange of communications concerning the status of a bank teller up for induction.

The board contended the man was deferred upon instructions from the draft director, but Goble said misinterpretation of a telegram and telephone conversation caused the confusion.

Goble said he admitted the telegram was not clear, and that he was willing to accept the blame. He praised the Clinton county board as "one of our best."

The present board has agreed to continue functioning until its resignation is accepted and a new one appointed, Goble said yesterday.

Allied Drive in Italy Looks Like A Block-Buster

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The Allied offensive in Italy has attained a gratifyingly substantial degree of success which might develop into a block-buster.

Now, in spite of this, cancer specialist in Berlin's megalomaniac denial of the existence of the Adolf Hitler line, although the Nazis actually were flinging themselves against these defenses at the time Adolf's broadcast. That's highly significant.

It seems the Hitlerites are preparing the German public in particular and the world in general, for a possible big Nazi withdrawal. The German command knows it isn't fooling the allied commanders one iota by saying that "there ain't no such animal" as the Adolf Hitler line, because our boys have been through it. However, the denial is designed to soften the adverse moral effect if the Nazis have to continue their retreat.

Still a Stiff Battle

It doesn't follow that the German won't put up a stiff battle, despite the fact that an allied spokesman described their retirement from the Gustav line to the Hitler defenses as a "disorderly retreat." Hard experience teaches us not to bank on a German debacle until we actually see it.

As things are going, the allied onslaught in Italy is proving to be an excellent curtain raiser for the major operations to come in eastern and in western Europe. The German commitment of some 25 divisions—probably 300,000 men—to the task of holding onto central Italy is a serious one at this crucial moment when Hitler is so short of man-power that he is having to count noses. If the allies can smash these divisions and clear the Italian peninsula, it will be a grand contribution to the final assault on the fortung Europa.

While the allies are getting ahead with their announced intention of annihilating the German army in Italy, an uneasy Berlin insists that Russia is ready for a wholesale offensive. And to keep German nerves jangling, the Muscovites agree that this is true.

The Red armies appear to be rounding into final shape rapidly, and the spring mud must be drying out well. Last year the Russians didn't start their big summer offensive until mid July, but things were far different at that time. This season they are in much greater strength, and an exceptionally early spring has advanced the summer fighting season.

Expect Twin Attack

The Germans say that the Russian offensive and D-day in the west will come simultaneously. Whether they believe this or not, the Hitlerites must be prepared for the contingency. They must stand guard on all fronts of their fortress perimeter.

Actually, there has been no indication that the Russians and the western allies would strike at exactly the same time. It certainly doesn't follow from visible preparations that the blows will be simultaneous. As a matter of fact, observers generally agree that it's quite possible the operations may be staggered — that the Russians will get into action ahead of the invasion in the west. For that matter, it wouldn't be surprising if other subsidiary operations preceded D-day.

The answer to when D-day will come is as elusive as ever. The American and British team lost some valuable bombing time this week, having been laid off by bad weather for five days. That would give the Nazis time to pull up their socks a bit. However, we swung into the aerial offensive again yesterday, rested and doing business at the old stand.

It's important to note, by the way, that our pilots ran into exceptional German fighter strength. The Nazis are bringing out their carefully conserved reserve of warplanes as the crisis draws near.

WHERE GUSTAV LINE CRACKED AND CASSINO FELL. This panorama of the historic Liri valley visualizes the difficulties faced by Allied forces when they cracked the Gustav line and hemmed in Cassino. Lower arrow indicates British crossing of the Rapido to San Angelo after which they drove to Pignataro. Upper forces then pressed to the Rome road and cut off Cassino. French troops of the Fifth Army at left across and cabs, swung from the south to San Apollinare and then drove to San Giorgio from which the advance continues. Note that the battles won't be just beyond the convergence of three rivers.

DEWEY PICKS UP 15 VOTES IN OREGON

By The Associated Press

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York picked up 15 delegates to the Republican national convention in the politically strategic northwest yesterday to increase his lead to a point which led backers to claim "he can't be stopped now" in the race for the G.O.P. presidential nomination.

Latest reports from 787 of Oregon's 1828 precincts gave Dewey 12,331 to 1770 for Lt. Commander Harold E. Stassen former Minnesota governor, in a preferential primary. Gov. Bricker of Ohio, Dewey's leading foe in the race for delegates, polled only 934 in the incomplete returns.

The New York governor's cache of pledged and claimed delegates was swollen to a probable 337 yesterday by action of Alabama Republicans in committing their 14 for him, the first time any G.O.P. candidate has been given the undisputed backing of a southern state's full group. Alaska Republicans instructed their three delegates to support the New York governor.

Dewey adherents also hoped to pick up some additional support today in Utah, where a Republican state convention is scheduled to pick eight.

President Roosevelt, who can have renomination if he wants it, picked up 11 additional delegates in the Oregon voting to boost his total to 697 of the 830 thus far chosen by the Democrats. The President also was pledged the support of a new liberal party organized in New York last night by right wingers who broke away from the American Labor party.

PONCA CITY, Okla.—His submarine was sinking and the order to abandon ship had been given but Robert Edwards, 17-year-old

Piqua Greets Gentile Today

European Theater Ace Returns Home After 3 Years in England.

(Picture on Page 3)

By The Associated Press

PIQUA, O., May 20—Capt. Don Gentile—who as a daredevil youth left home three years ago to join the Royal Air Force—returns today to accept belatedly the plaudits of his friends and neighbors.

With thirty planes to his credit—and a chest full of medals—Gentile probably will face the test of his 24 years. He will meet the home folks—en masse.

This town of 16,000 is determined to make his homecoming one of the greatest events in the state's history. He is not only the leading American fighter pilot in the European theater—he is a home town boy who in true American tradition really "made good."

Since early spring, a celebration has been planned for "when Don comes home." Forgotten were were the boyhood pranks—stunting over the town and zooming under the Miami river bridge in the plane his father bought him.

A "Don Gentile day" is set for "sometime" next week.

The city commission authorized a public celebration to "glorify jointly the homecoming hero and to pay tribute to all city men and women in service."

Ohio Senators Robert A. Taft and Harold H. Burton, Gov. Bricker and Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker—himself a native Ohioan and holder of the record of 26 enemy planes downed in World war I—all have been invited.

City schools will close and in the evening there will be a huge parade, a memorial service for the Miami county war dead, and several speakers.

Among them will be the slender, dark-haired Gentile, whom many townsfolk will remember as the youth who owned and flew his first plane at 17—a plane his Italian immigrant father bought because, as he explained it, "Don has lived, breathed, dreamed and slept airplanes."

Don's mother, accompanied by her brother, Frank J. Capriano, of Columbus, departed for Washington immediately upon hearing he had reached this country from England.

Last night she attended a press conference while Don was being interviewed by newsmen in Washington.

For three years Don has been in England—he joined the Royal Air Force in 1941, and less than a year later transferred to the American air force, where he really found his "batting eye" and stated to make his new record. He is credited officially with destroying 23 enemy planes in combat and seven aground.

NICE THOUGHT, ANYWAY

BOSTON — "Thanks for the tie and your lovely note," wrote Army Captain William H. Hunt to his mother in Charlestown after receiving congratulations on his promotion to captaincy in the Solomons. "I didn't get your box until yesterday because I was leading an attack on Hill 260." His mother had written: "As a captain you probably can relax and take things easy."

LOCKBOURNE BOMBER CARRIES 3 TO DEATH

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., May 20—A Flying Fortress caught fire in the air over southern Ohio farmland today and carried three crewmen to their deaths after a fourth member parachuted to safety.

Col. John S. Gullet, commandant of Lockbourne airbase, said the survivor was Pfc. Louis C. Iacampo, 22, Cranston, R. I.

Iacampo related, Gullet said, that the ship caught fire at about 5,000 feet and the pilot gave orders for the crew to bail out. Iacampo leaped as the plane plummeted to the ground and exploded at an elevation of about 200 feet. Gullet said Iacampo was unable to explain why other members did not leap.

The ship landed on the farm of Sol Wagner, three miles southwest of Amanda in Fairfield county.

Italian Ports Attacked

The MAAF attacked the Italian ports of La Spezia, Genoa and Leghorn, all on the Ligurian sea coast in northern Italy.

The RAF flew out in two great waves—the first heading across the east coast toward Germany and the second sweeping over France. The latter section was directed at the Nazis' Atlantic wall defenses across the channel.

Approach of the RAF planes caused the Germans to halt the second bombardment of the Dover area within six hours. A short time later anti-aircraft flares flecked the cloud-covered night and the crash of explosions along the French coast could be heard.

The Berlin radio said 4,318 planes, including 3,420 four-engined bombers, were destroyed during American raids on Germany in the first four months of this year. "The allies lost 30,000 flying personnel during this period," the DNB home service broadcast said.

No enemy planes were over Britain during the night.

The U. S. assault on Berlin yesterday flattened "some of the largest workers' districts of the city," destroying hundreds of dwellings, the Berlin correspondent of Stockholm's Aftonbladet said, terming it "one of the worst attacks" on the Nazi capital. One of Berlin's most historic buildings was destroyed, he added.

A strategic air force bulletin today said photographs indicated damage to industrial areas and railways in Berlin, and to the Wilhelmsor Messerschmitt components factory, and a pipe and boiler factory near Brunswick. Rail shops and yards were hit at both cities.

marched back to Allied prison pens.

While the Americans wiped from their sector the last vestiges of what once was considered the Hitler line anchored in the Aurunci mountains running down to Gaeta Point, Gen. Alphonse Juin's French troops slipped into the Hitler line fortifications further north, capturing the village of Sant' Oliva, which had been designated a strongpoint.

The French then thrust on, seizing Monte Mandrone, which dominated the whole area north of Sant' Oliva and also commands the road due westward from Pontecorvo to Pico — the only line of retreat for Pontecorvo's defenders who already are being attacked heavily by Eighth Army troops.

In the Liri valley British and dominion tanks and armored cars advanced rapidly yesterday against light resistance to the outskirts of the Aquino airdrome, another point in the heavy Hitler line fortifications guarding the broad valley.

German parachute troops guarding the airdrome were dispersed and the vehicles set ablaze by the heavy fire of the British force.

The armor then stabbed forward to the wire entanglements in front of the town of Aquino and laid a surprise curtain of fire on the German infantry.

British Shell Fire

British elements advancing on the road from Piedmonte to Pontecorvo halted 1,000 yards from the Hitler line fortifications guarding Pontecorvo to permit artillery to lay a concentration of shells on the enemy.

At the northern end of the offensive front the Poles smashed westward through high mountains from the Cassino area and captured Villa Santa Lucia, two and a half miles northwest of the Cassino monastery.

Polish patrols also moved up into Piedimonte just off of highway No. 6 which has been described as one of the strongpoints of the Hitler line.

Apparently trying to save prestige, the Nazi high command was disclosed to have taken the name "Adolf Hitler line" away from the fortifications guarding the Liri valley and the area southward which already has been riddled in several places. Prisoners now say line is called the Dora line.

It is believed the name of Hitler has now been given to another line nearer Rome.

Shortage of Eggs For Drying Reported in Ohio

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., May 20—A shortage of eggs for the government in a surplus market was disclosed today by George Wood, Scioto county agricultural agent, and Joe Friedman, president of the Robert Arnold Co., whose plant here dries eggs for the army.

The shortage developed, they said, as a result of a new ruling by the war food administration (WFA) requiring that egg producers receive a minimum of 27 cents a dozen.

A surplus of eggs has driven the wholesale price down as low as 21 and 22 cents to retail dealers, Wood said. At the same time, he added, dealers who paid that sum cannot sell them to the egg drier because they did not pay the farmer enough.

Lausche Is Absent from Party Conclave

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, May 20—Mayor Frank J. Lausche of Cleveland, Democratic gubernatorial nominee, did not attend the biennial Cuyahoga county Democratic convention last night and has announced he will not attend the state central committee meeting at Columbus Monday.

The Cleveland mayor sent county Democrats a letter for reading at the meeting, to thank "the humble, common member of the Democratic party who worked for my election at the primary." Ray T. Miller, former Cleveland mayor, was reelected Cuyahoga county chairman.

Lausche attributed his absences from both meetings to city hall business, including the impending transit strike.

BRIGHTER DAYS AHEAD FOR MARION TEAM

FORMULATION of a working agreement between the Marion Ohio State league baseball club and the Los Angeles Brooks, Pacific Coast loop farm of the Canada Cubs, is a step for the good of the local team, which has yet failed to perform with pennant-contending ability, except for a few instances. Being affiliated with a higher-class minor league team or a major league club is an advantage to any Class B team. As a rule, more talented players can be secured by a Class B team through a working agreement than through independent, free-lance operations.

Already, the Los Angeles team, which is in one of the nation's three Double A minor leagues, has provided the Marion team with two home-runners and many more are expected to make their Ohio State league debuts before long.

Up to now, Marion has been without major league backing and it has been a noticeable disadvantage, both from a playing and a financial standpoint. Marion, up to last night's game with Newark, had lost 10 of its first 14 games. This poor record can be attributed in large part to the fact that the local club, with veteran Grover Hartley at the reins, had to be content with none-too-competent players from other minor leagues, free agents and castoffs from the other five Ohio State circuit teams. With the single exception of Newark, the rest of the league teams have had major league sponsorship since the beginning of the season. And Newark has had an informal "understanding" with the Toledo Mud Hens of the Class AA American Association. The records prove that being a farm club or having a major league working agreement is a distinct benefit to a low class professional team. With Marion now having the assistance of the Cubs, look for the local team, which is expected to acquire the nick-name "Cubs" or "Bruins," to pick up and give the other O. S. L. clubs a good, old-fashioned tussle.

Some of the Marion players, who up to yesterday when the working agreement was publicly announced, had hopes of retaining their position on the team for the entire season, may get their release papers in the near future, if some of the Cub-prepped boys prove more talented. However, it's doubtful if the Los Angeles-furnished players could be more fitted athletically than a few of the local diamond stand outs—such as Bob McDonald, shortstop, leading the loop in hitting, Joe Bellamy, Outfielder Virl Minnis and Pitcher Randy "Lefty" Edwards. No matter whom the Cubs send here, it's a pretty safe bet that these boys will stay.

DOWN THE FAIRWAY

THE North Central Ohio conference, generally not strong for spring sports, has a wide assortment of them this year. Three teams, Ashland, Galion and Shelby have baseball teams, Marion Harding had a track team that didn't compete interscholastically and now Mt. Vernon comes along with a golf team. The Yellow Jackets golfers defeated Columbus North, 7 to 5, in a match at the Mt. Vernon Country club Wednesday. North had previously downed the Mounties, 10½ to 1½ over the Wyandot course, soon to be converted into a site for state institutions. Bill Deedrick, whom Harding fans will remember as a good Mt. Vernon footballer and basketballer this year, shot 39-46 for an 18-hole total of 85 to lead the Jacket triumph.

BUCKNER DECIDES TO STAY IN ASHLAND

AUDRIS L. BUCKNER has changed his mind and will remain as Ashland High school head football and basketball coach next year. He has rejected offers to become head Lorain High grid coach next fall. It seems the terms offered Buckner weren't those he had originally agreed to. To add weight to the decision of remaining at Ashland, high school officials there are reported to have offered more lucrative terms in the matter of salary. That conformed with Buckner's natural attachment to Ashland athletics and athletes, seemed to be persuasion enough.

Nine Horses Burned at Churchill Downs

By The Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 20—Nine race horses were burned fatally and two others had to be destroyed following a fire in a barn at Churchill Downs early today. Police Sergeant William Bodendender said.

The officer said only one barn was burned. It was the one that housed Pensive while he was here to win the Kentucky derby.

Bodendener said it was reported to him that nine horses died in the barn and that two others had to be shot after they fled from the fire and were injured.

The officer said cause of the blaze had not been determined.

The spring meeting at Churchill Downs ends with this afternoon's races. Hundreds of thoroughbreds are stabled in barns on the far side of the track, opposite the clubhouse and grandstands.

Newark Plasters Marion Team 14-0

NEWARK, May 20—Newark's Moundsmen [illegible] Marion 14 to 0 after [illegible] here last night to [illegible] a tie for second place in the Ohio State league standings. Marion suffered its seventh defeat of the campaign and is now in last place, six and a half games out of first place, currently held down by the Lima Red Birds. It was Newark's ninth win against six losses.

Newark pounded out 16 hits to [illegible] Randy Edwards, Marion left hander, his third defeat of the season. Edwards was left in the entire distance by Manager Grover Hartley. Dick Otey, a Homeborn Newark boy, pitched a second triumph in the series for Manager Ed Lukon. He had previously been credited with a relief [illegible] over Akron. Zanesville and Springfield were matched [illegible] Tonight, Marion and Newark wind up their current series with a game scheduled at 9 o'clock. Newark is expected to start Bill Evans on the mound and Marion may counter with Earl Schultz, large right hander, who set the Mound men down with three hits in the nightcap of a doubleheader in Marion last Sunday afternoon. Springfield and Zanesville Dodgers at Lincoln park in Marion.

Other Games

In other Ohio State league games last night, Middletown edged Zanesville, 8 to 7, and Lima outslugged Springfield, 17 to 13, in a wild-affair in which 33 hits and six errors were registered. Lima retained its grasp on top position and Middletown still is tied for second place with Newark. Zanesville is in fourth place followed by Springfield in fifth and Marion in the all-too-familiar cellar.

Marion was on the verge of scoring many times last night but couldn't seem to give out with that extra punch needed for a tally. Otey did a cool-headed job of pitching and never seemed to be flustered with men on base. He is yet to be scored upon in Ohio State league competition. Big Newark inning was the second in which five runs were racked up after Malcolm Gregory, Marion second baseman, dropped a "perfect double play ball."

Louis Funk and James Ailsworth, who are the first players to be supplied to Marion through the working agreement with the Chicago Cubs, made their debuts in local uniforms last night, Funk played left field while Ailsworth, batting clean up, was on first base. Virl Minnis was behind the plate for Marion last night inasmuch as Joe Bellamy, regular catcher, sustained an injured leg when sliding into home in Thursday night's game and was unable to play.

Following is a summary of last night's game and score by innings in the other two league games.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK, May 20—Delaware park has dropped the daily double for several reasons, including "a question among the directors whether the daily double is a desirable form of wagering". That goes to prove that the point that horse racing does exist in some form for other purposes than extracting as much dough as possible from the public.

There's Nothing New

If you thought Bucky Walters and Clyde Shoun were hot stuff when they pitched a one-hitter and a no-hitter for the Reds on successive days, listen to this report from Bill Diehl of the Norfolk, Va., Ledger-Dispatch .. When Norfolk's bitter high school rivals, Maury and Granby, clashed recently, two Maury pitchers did the same trick on one afternoon, with added flourishes. First Billy Rainier tossed a one-hit, 7-0 victory over Granby and shortstop Allen Richter made two hits . Then they traded positions and Richter hurled a 21-0 no-hitter and Rainier led the attack with five for six

That story about Don Burnham going from Dartmouth to Cornell to complete his medical course sounds good—only its Cornell Medical college in New York so Don won't be on anybody's track team .Michigan State, which will play only all-civilian football teams next fall, is ready to book all comers for 1945.

Reds Play Dodgers First Time Today

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, May 20—The Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers meet for the first time this year today at Crosley Field and Bill McKechnie, manager of the Reds, wasn't sure which of two rookie pitchers he would start.

His choice lay between Bob Katz, a Dayton, O., war worker who quit a $100-a-week job to have a try-out with Cincinnati, or Bob Malloy, who got in six games last year but whose record is nothing for nothing.

The Reds again were in second place in the league standings today, (the fifth time in 10 days) following yesterday's helter-skelter victory over the Philadelphia Blue Jays, 7 to 5.

Clyde Shoun, who Monday racked up a no-hit performance against Boston, was bounced around more than somewhat during the nine innings, but was around at the finish and had enough stuff to whiz a third strike past Jimmy Wasdell in the ninth with two out while the tying run was on first base.

The Blue Jays scored a run in the third, another in the seventh and three in the ninth. The Reds got two of theirs in the first, taking advantage of two errors; one in the second, three in the fifth, and the last in the seventh

Pensive and Platter Not in Belmont Race

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20—With Pensive and Platter staying in their stalls and no Count Fleet around, today's 80th running of the $15,000 added withers mile at Belmont park stacked up as a wide-open race for 15 three-year-olds.

Despite the absence at Warren Wright's Kentucky derby and Preakness winner, and George Widener's Preakness runnerup, more than 40,000 was anticipated at the Long Island track. Both have been trained for longer distances and are pointing for the mile and a half Belmont stakes.

Although C. Hooper's Dixielaw and Mrs. George Poulsen's Broadcloth, two of the early pace makers in the Derby, were among the 15 entries, the overnight odds favored Alfred Parker's By Jimmy, a colt who missed the derby because of an ankle injury.

McDonald of Marion Leads Ohio State League Hitters with .392; Minnis Third [illegible] Marion [illegible] not been at bat [illegible] times, the leadership [illegible] number of times to warrant [illegible] qualifying. The Marion [illegible] has been [illegible] the individual batting record established by [illegible] in the first two weeks of the season, up to and including games of last Tuesday night.

Setting the Ohio State league batting pace is Bob McDonald, hard-hitting, smooth-playing Marion shortstop and record baseman with a fine .392 percentage consisting of 20 hits in 51 times at bat. Another Marion's beauty-spot representative, Virl Minnis, left fielder, is tied for third position in the league batting race with a .373 mark, including 12 singles in 24 times at the plate. Tom Con, Springfield Giant lead off man and second baseman is deadlocked with Minnis. In second spot, only seven percentage point behind McDonald is Steve Senge, outfielder of the Middletown, Red Sox with a .385 count.

These marks do not in [illegible] games played after Tuesday night. McDonald's .392 percentage probably has been affected either positively or negatively by the Newark games of Thursday and Friday nights.

In reality, McDonald may not rank at the very top of the O.S.L. batting list, being instead in third position. However, the two men listed ahead of him are Garner of Newark and Willshaw of Springfield, both pitchers who [illegible] Garner, the big Newark [illegible] Bob Steinbacker of Lima and Bill Devine of Springfield are tied in the pitching with [illegible] records, each having [illegible] in three games and [illegible] innings. Randy Edwards of Marion, their best pitcher on paper, at least, with two wins in four games.

Joseph Carnebauer, Springfield's clean up slugger, is the league's leading specialized hitter, placing [illegible] with 21, runs batted in with 17 and total bases with 30. He also leads in stolen bases with five. McDonald of Marion has batted in 13 runs. Harvey Zernis of the league-leading Lima Red Birds leads in home runs with three. McDonald is high in doubles with five. Tomlinson of Springfield has scored the most runs, 15. Ned Garver of Newark is the loop's current strikeout king with 37 whiffs.

Marion is fourth in team batting with a composite .252 average and 5th in team fielding with a .965 mark. The locals have accounted for 112 hits, including six homers, four triples and 14 doubles. In the field, the men of Grover Hartley have committed 50 errors. Springfield is tops in team batting with .277 while Middletown sets the tempo in fielding with .951.

Don't Count The Browns Out, They're Back in First Place

By The Associated Press

If you've been counting the St. Louis Browns out of the American league pennant race because of their poor eastern trip, better revise the figures and look again. Luke Sewell has them back in first place today.

After winning their first nine, the Browns started to slip, blew an entire series in Philadelphia and fell off the top.

Since leaving Missouri soil over two weeks ago the Browns, only team never to win a pennant, have taken only five of 14 games. They had lost seven out of 10 to their eastern rivals before they grabbed a 6-5 edge over the Yankees yesterday at New York. But Joe McCarthy's crew has been drooping, too.

Detroit tumbled Washington into third place behind Johnny Gorsica's tight seven-hit twirling as Rudy York banged out two hits and drove in half the runs of the Tigers' 4-1 edge.

Philadelphia's luck continued to run bad as Cleveland's Al Smith hung up his first triumph of the year by a 9-1 count, scattering nine hits.

Mike Ryba capped off three hitless innings as a relief hurler by singling home the winning run in the last of the 12th for Boston's 3-2 shade over Chicago.

Pittsburgh swept the series from Brooklyn in the National, advancing into third place on a 3-2 victory. Vince DiMaggio's third homer was the big wallop of a four-run spurt in the seventh.

Mort Cooper came up with a sore elbow after two trying innings as Jim Tobin pitched Boston to a 4-3 nod over the St. Louis Cardinals whose lead was sliced to three and a half games when Cincinnati outslugged the Phils, 7-5.

Chicago collected only three hits but they were enough for a 3-2 verdict over New York with the help of Hugh Luby's error with the bases loaded.

GALION ENDS SEASON WITH 9 - 4 TRIUMPH

Special to The Star

GALION, May 20—Galion High school completed its 1944 baseball season with a 9 to 4 victory over the Ashland Hilltoppers at Galion's Heise park Thursday afternoon. It was Galion's second triumph of the season over the Ashlanders.

Emery Shaffer was the winning moundsmen for Galion and allowed the Ashland team only four hits. Galion, meanwhile, got to Bob Dove, ace Hilltopper elbower and relief man McDaniel for seven hits including a home run by Don Wolfelt, lead off man and second baseman.

Coach Jim Lymper of Galion has announced the following Galion baseballers will receive varsity letters. Emery Shaffer, Bill Stoner, Ed Dougherty, Bob Tucker, Gene Plummer, Don Wolfelt, Ed Carmel, John Wisler, Jim Fendrick, Bill Dorian and Jack Baer.

Lineups:

Vince DiMaggio, Pirates—Clouted home run during Pittsburg's five-run winning spurt in seventh.

Clyde Shoun, Reds—Overcame usual jinx by winning next start after no-hitter although touched for 10 blows by Phils.

CLEVELAND GETS 17 HITS TO HELP SMITH WIN FIRST GAME

Tribe Hops on Athletic Hurlers To Chalk Up 9 to 1 Victory.

By The Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA, May 20—The Cleveland Indians gave some a long way toward [illegible] their [illegible] in Tribe owner Al Smith by winning the first game [illegible] the season yesterday by batting [illegible] team mates and awaited it safely [illegible] to overwhelm the Philadelphia Athletics, 9 to 1.

The veteran hurler, who won 17 and lost 7 games last year, gave up nine hits but managed to spread them nicely, never allowing more than two per inning. The Athletics gained their single tally in the seventh frame, to end a string of 18 scoreless innings against Detroit and Cleveland pitchers.

Al has a difficult season this year, dropping his first three starts, mostly due to poor support.

The Tribe opened up with eight hits in the first two innings against hurler Luke Hamlin, tallying once in the first and three times more in the second. They clicked again in the fifth with a four-run blast at Russ Christopher, and their last tally was added in the sixth at the expense of 17-year-old Carl Scheib.

Heavy hitters included Russ Peters, who lifted a home run into the lower left field stand in the fifth, Oris Hockett with a triple and three singles and Roy Cullenbine with three singles.

Mel Harder is scheduled to take the mound for the Tribe to face Luman Harris in today's game. Harder seeks his fourth straight victory, and the 201st triumph of his major league career.

BIRDS CUT BREWS LEAD TO 3 GAMES

By The Associated Press

Columbus fans probably would be glad to settle tonight for a "local boy" who does not make good. For in this case the fellow is Owen Scheetz, 28-year-old Milwaukee right hander, whom Manager Casey Stengel has nominated to stop the Birds and halt a four-game Brewer losing streak.

Last night the Brewers' American association lead was cut to three games when second place Columbus took its second in a row from the champions, 9 to 6. Red Barrett, who relieved starter Jack Creel in the seventh inning, received credit for his fourth victory and his second in as many nights.

Ernie Rudolph of St. Paul pitched no-hit ball until the sixth inning when Johnny Hutchings touched him for a safety, but the Saints' right hander allowed only one more blow and wound up with a two-hit 5-1 verdict over last place Indianapolis.

Louisville moved into a fifth place tie with Minneapolis by whipping the Millers 6 to 3 on an infield out with the bases loaded and a two-run double by Nick Polly in the eighth. Ollie Byers, gaining his first victory and his team's fourth in a row, held the Millers to only five hits.

Fred Pepper of Kansas City and Sylvester (Stretch) Goedde of Toledo registered their fourth victories without a loss as the Blues and Mudhens split a double bill. Pepper yielded just five blows to take the opener, 7-1, while Goedde permitted 10 in winning the nightcap, 5-1.

Softball Opening Changed to June 5 By Commissioners

The [illegible] Madison league's [illegible] to a [illegible] May [illegible] May [illegible] day, June 5, at a meeting of [illegible] school [illegible] at the [illegible] last night.

The commission decided to postpone the opening to June 5 so that not all of the [illegible] would be participate in [illegible] other organization and the [illegible] diamonds on which [illegible] league games will be played [illegible] summer have not been [illegible] shipped into good playing [illegible] tion. The McKinley and Lincoln park fields are in good shape [illegible] repair work on the Garfield baseball is far from complete owing to the inclement weather which has hampered work in the past few days.

The commission did not decide what two league teams will meet in the opening game. The group did, however, determine the nights on which the various [illegible] would play this summer. The Sunday School league will play on Monday nights, the Industrial league on Tuesday nights, the Women's league on Wednesday nights and the Commercial league on Thursday nights.

The commission authorized a scheduling committee to schedule games on the Marion Steam Shovel diamond this summer, when the Lincoln park field is used by the Marion Ohio State league team. The Steam Shovel diamond was not used by softball teams last season but in the past was played upon regularly by city teams. The diamond, located in the west side, is currently undergoing work by company employes.

Elmer Shaw, head of the scheduling committee and softball commission president last year, has started to map out the Industrial and Commercial league schedules. These two leagues have completed organizations and have their full complement of teams. It's a different story, however, in the Sunday school and women's circuits. There are only three teams in each league and one more must be secured before the leagues can operate this summer. The Greenwood and Oakland churches are working on organization of a joint team, as are the Central Christian and Calvary churches. Already registered in the church league are Presbyterian, Epworth and St. Mary.

Marine and its strug... ly our fighting forces ... and sea, and in... ...rine attacks and Nazi ...ther, the tanker "Cit... ...n Robinson as Captain ...son and McLaglen as ...rson, the first mate.

...rescues the survivors of a torpedoed passenger ship. Lynn Bari, playing the role of Kathie Hall, entertainer and cigaret girl, is taken aboard. Her true identity and past is enveloped in mystery, since none of the other survivors recognize her and she has no passport. When the tanker docks at Tampico, immigration officials threaten to intern her. Despite Fred's protests that he is a sucker, Bart assumes full responsibility for Kathie.

Thus begins trouble for all. The tanker is treacherously sunk and the entire weight of circumstantial evidence for the betrayal of movements of the ship is placed on Kathie.

Coming Tuesday and playing for 10 days is "Buffalo Bill" featuring Joel McCrea, Maureen O'Hara and Linda Darnell.

McCrea plays the part of Buffalo Bill, one of America's greatest frontiersman. His many adventures, although they have been told countless times, still are fresh and rush across the screen again as "Buffalo Bill" gains fame in the West. Supporting parts are played by Linda Darnell, as Dawn Starlight, a beautiful Indian girl, Maureen O'Hara, cast as Louisa Cody, whose romance with the famous westerner was destined to be one of the most exciting in history, and Anthony Quinn as the Indian, Yellow Hand. Thomas Mitchell and Edgar Buchanan are also to be seen in the film.

CEDAR POINT OPENING SCHEDULED FOR JUNE 17

Variety of Activities Arranged for Vacationers.

Cedar Point, Lake Erie resort, will open for the season on Saturday, June 17, the management announced today.

Preparations are being made for a heavy vacation season at the Breakers Hotel in view of restrictions that will keep Ohioans from traveling long distances for vacations. Among the new features at the resort this year is a large cafeteria.

Swimming, dancing, fishing, golf, picnics and amusement concessions are among the activities planned for the season. A steamer will make daily lake trips between Cleveland and the Point, and hourly ferry service is provided between Sandusky and Cedar Point.

GINGER ROGERS AND ROBERT RYAN, above, plan their future in "Tender Comrade," to be shown Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace theater.

"Tender Comrade" at Palace Four Days Beginning Sunday

Ginger Rogers, Robert Ryan and Ruth Hussey Featured; "Lady Let's Dance" To Start Thursday.

The story of the girl next door and the boy she marries, and of what happens when he goes off to war is the theme of "Tender Comrade," starring Ginger Rogers, Robert Ryan and Ruth Hussey, to be screened Sunday through Wednesday at the Palace theater.

Jo Jones, one of a group of war wives employed in an airplane factory near Los Angeles, is married to Chris, who is in uniform overseas. With three fellow employes she rents a big old-fashioned house and employs a housekeeper. When one of the three loses her husband in action, the group is drawn more tightly together. Jo, played by Miss Rogers, gets a telegram from the war department, telling her that Chris, too, has been lost in action. She is determined to carry on for their small son.

"Lady Let's Dance," featuring Belita and James Ellison, and "Jack London," with Michael O'Shea and Susan Hayward will be shown Thursday through Saturday.

As the story opens, Belita is a refugee from Holland, temporarily working as a waitress at a resort hotel. After the feminine star of a dancing act appearing at the hotel joins the SPARS, it is discovered that Belita has been a dancing and skating star in her native land. She takes the position of the absent girl and continues her act. James Ellison plays opposite Belita as a young man who discovers her talents and helps her gain a place in the act.

The life of one of America's almost legendary writers is dramatized in "Jack London" in which Michael O'Shea plays the part of London and Susan Hayward that of his wife, Charmain. A little known side of London's life is depicted, that of war correspondent. Called from plans for his wedding to cover the outbreak of hostilities between Russia and Japan, he goes to Nippon to learn some of the facts about the aggression-minded Japanese. Under the guidance of a Japanese officer, Jack sees the Japanese in action against the Russians and learns of the Nipponese desire for world conquest.

London returns to America, determined to speak and write until the people of this country become aware of the peril to their homeland from their "friendly" neighbors across the Pacific.

CONFERENCE SET FOR COUNTY 4-H GROUPS

Program To Be at Pleasant School May 29.

The program for a conference of advisors, officers and parents of 4-H club members to be held May 29 at Pleasant Township school has been announced by Arthur H. Smith, county farm agent. Separate programs will be set up for each of the three groups and special speakers. All three programs will start at 6:30 p. m.

The 4-H club officers will be divided into four groups, each of which will hear a talk on their field of activity. H. H. Harshfield of Columbus, assistant state 4-H club leader, and Ivan Cooper, assistant manager of the Marion County Farm Bureau co-operative, will talk to presidents and vice presidents. Miss Louise Hinaman, county agricultural extension office secretary, will talk to secretaries and treasurers. Club reporters will hear Robert Byrd, city editor of The Star. Miss Madge Cooper, program director of Station WMRN, will instruct recreation leaders. Group discussion of 4-H club problems of organization, leadership, completion and exhibits will be held from 9 to 10.

Miss Eva Kinsey of Columbus, assistant state 4-H club leader, will discuss problems with advisors from 8:30 to 9:45. "The Parents' Part in the 4-H Program" will be the subject of a talk at 8:30 by A. B. Graham of Columbus, first director of agricultural extension in Ohio, leader in organization of 4-H club work, and former associate of the U. S. department of agriculture.

All groups will meet to hear reports from individual discussion groups from 10 to 10:30. The meeting is open to all parents, officers and 4-H club advisors in Marion county.

Marion Shows "Hello Frisco"

Alice Faye, John Payne and Jack Oakie Have Featured Roles.

Showing tonight at midnight through Monday at the Marion theater are "No Time For Love," starring Fred MacMurray and Claudette Colbert and "Hello Frisco," featuring Alice Faye, John Payne and Jack Oakie.

The stars of "No Time for Love" are seen as an arty woman photographer and a tough strong minded tunnel digger. The two meet when Claudette is sent into the tunnel to get pictures of the sandhogs at work. Their romance starts then and there.

John Steinbeck's war story, "The Moon Is Down," starring Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Henry Travers and Doris Bowdon, and "Banjo on My Knee," featuring Barbara Stanwyck, Joel McCrea and Walter Brennan will be on the screen Tuesday and Wednesday.

The unbending spirit of true Norwegians faced by the treachery of the Quislings is dramatized in "The Moon Is Down."

To be seen Thursday through Saturday will be "Bomber's Moon" with George Montgomery and Annabella, and "Raiders of the Border," featuring Johnny Mack Brown.

In "Bomber's Moon" an American bomber, after completing its mission over Germany, is shot down in enemy territory. The pilot remaining in the plane, watches his brother drift helplessly to earth, machine gunned by a Nazi flyer.

Trailing a herd of cattle to the border, Johnny Mack Brown stumbles on an outlaw band in "Raiders of the Border." He is aided by his comic pal, Raymond Hatton.

Buster Crabtree Film On Double Program at State

"Girl from Monterrey," with Armida and Edgar Kennedy, and "The Kid Rides Again," with Buster Crabtree and Al St. John will be shown Sunday and Monday at the State theater.

Armida is cast as a Mexican night club singer, who makes good in New York as a prize fight manager for her kid brother.

Tuesday and Wednesday "For Me and My Gal," starring Judy Garland and George Murphy, and "Destination Unknown," with Irene Hervey and William Gargan will be shown. "For Me and My Gal" is the story of two young vaudeville players who vow they will be married the day they hit big time. The young man is called to service in the first World war. When he purposely injures his hand to gain a delay, the girl renounces him.

"Saddles and Sagebrush," with Russell Hayden and Bob Willis, and "The Big Store," with the Marx brothers and Virginia Grey will be shown Thursday through Saturday.

Total production of denim for overalls dropped from 328,000,000 yards in 1941 to about 266,000,000 yards last year.

HORSE KICKS AT SERVICE

By The United Press

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. — Juda Bass' horse was not one to take an apparent slight with meekness. When the 82-year-old peddler stopped his wagon to give the steed a drink, he took the bucket away before the horse finished. Angered, the horse gave Bass a kick which landed him in the hospital with a compound fracture of the right leg.

FARM CASH RETURN

WASHINGTON, May 20—A census bureau report shows that the highest gross return on 16,582 Ohio farms rented for cash in 1940 was in Scioto county, where the average reached $7.57 on each $100 of valuation. The state average was $5.04. The average cash rental per acre in Ohio declined from $4.18 an acre in 1930, to $3.44 an acre in 1940, the report said.

Marshal Tito Asks Allied Aid

Tito asked that the committee of liberation be given the gold of the Yugoslav national bank, the Yugoslav warships seized by the Italians and retaken by the allies, and the Yugoslav merchant vessels now in possession of King Peter's exiled Yugoslav government, which his own organization does not recognize.

The marshal said his people were getting some help from the allies and especially expressed appreciation of the support given his troops by the allied airforces. Much more is needed, however, he said, especially tanks, anti-tanks guns, airplanes and food.

The Germans "helped by local traitors" have destroyed one-twelfth "of the entire Slav population of Yugoslavia," he declared, and have plundered wide areas carrying off horses, cattle and sheep, burning down thousands of houses and destroying some towns entirely.

One hundred and ten thousand soldiers of the national liberation army have been killed in the past three years, he said, but not in vain, for their struggle has saved thousands of men, women and children who would have perished had the war of resistance not been waged.

In reply to the question, "what is the strength of the enemy forces in Yugoslavia?" Marshal Tito included Mihailovic Chetniks among them and credited General Draja Mihailovic, (war minister of the Yugoslav government in exile and leader of its forces inside Yugoslavia) with having a force of only 16,000.

His answer was: "in Yugoslavia there are still about 14 German divisions, four Bulgarian divisions, about 120,000 to 130,000 Croat Domobrans, Legionaries and Ustachi, about 15,000 followers of Nedic (Field Marshal Milan Nedic, pro-Nazi former premier), 16,000 Chetniks under Mihailovic, three regiments of White Corps in Serbia, about 12,000 Slovene Domobrans under the Quisling Rupnik and about 10,000 Arnauts. Besides this there are various police troops."

(Earlier this week the AP was informed that a passage referring to Mihailovic was the chief reason it still was held up by censor. This may have been the passage.)

Tito said that the committee of liberation had not formally demanded recognition by the United States, Britain and Russia as "the sole legal government of Yugoslavia" because its main line of action was to subordinate all activity to "our struggle against the invader."

He said the committee also wanted to avoid giving any "inconveniences" which might arise out of demands for recognition.

Tito Cites Requests

"But we have done everything to inform all our allies about the situation in Yugoslavia, about our struggle for liberation, about the reasons for formation of the national committee of liberation and about the decisions of the anti-fascist council of liberation of Yugoslavia and concerning the Yugoslav exiled government, which has been deprived of all rights."

"The development of events demands that we more often present to the allies the problems with which our people's government is faced in the interest of the people and our armed forces. The reasons for this are, on one hand, the increasingly harmful activity of the exiled government and, on the other, questions of post-war reconstruction and world order for which the allies already are making preparations.

"So we have, for example, intervened with the allies in connection with the blocking of the gold of the national bank of Yugoslavia, which the exiled government wishes to appropriate illegally, and to ask to be included in the membership of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration.

"We have asked that they return to us warships which the Italians confisticated at the time of the occupation of Yugoslavia. These ships were given to the exiled Yugoslav government instead of being used by us for the defense of our islands. If we had had these we should not have lost the Dalmation islands on which the Germans succeeded in landing because they had a few warships."

Tito said the committee had likewise asked the allies for control of the Yugoslav merchant navy now in the hands of the exiled government, which he charged with "squandering for its personal ends" money paid for the use of these ships. He asked for this money so the committee could renew the merchant navy and improve the pay of sailors, and asserted:

"Otherwise, the national committee would not touch the private interests of ship owners."

Problems Increasing

"Such problems always are increasing, and circumstances are forcing us to work for the complete and juridicial recognition of the national committee. I think our actions give to our friends in official allied circles sufficient argument that they are, in the first place, guided by the interests of the common good — the struggle against Hitler aggression—and that recognition of the national committee only will strengthen the united struggle. So every day, the apparently justified reasons for the inconvenience which might arise from our recognition are diminishing."

In response to a question on the size of the Liberation army, Tito said that since he announced it as 250,000 last November, "some units, each consisting of some divisions," have been formed.

In response to the question how the allies most effectively could help Yugoslavia, Tito said the national committee was trying to obtain before all else armaments, ammunition, medical supplies and food for the Liberation army.

"We are getting this help regularly," he said. "Considering the number and necessities of our army, this help is far from being sufficient. Naturally the reason for this, first of all, is the technical difficulty of transportation.

"To equip the Liberation army with arms that would enable them to fight on equal terms against a much stronger enemy, we need, first of all tanks and anti-aircraft guns. Our second need is our own airforce capable of dealing with our special tactical tasks. Our army has a sufficient personnel for tanks and air crews, so there is no problem of personnel.

"I take this occasion to stress that the Allied airforce activity in Yugoslavia has been of considerable help in our fight against the enemy."

Many Are Hungry

Discussing help for civilians, Tito said there was hunger in many of the worst devastated sections. Efforts have been made, he said, to make this year's crops as rich as possible, but in some cases this was impaired by shortages of seed, cattle and farm machinery, and even the coming harvest would not fully solve the food problem.

"The peoples of Yugoslavia have a full right to expect immediate help from the UNRRA," he said. "The charter of the UNRRA says help will be forthcoming immediately on liberation. We have here 130,000 square kilometers of liberated territory on which over 5,000,000 people are living.

"These people, with their own forces, by enormous sacrifice have liberated themselves from the enemy, have created an army which is now successfully defending this liberated territory, have formed their national Democratic government. These people need help urgently. But they have not even their own representative in the UNRRA because the committee of liberation is not juridically recognized. This situation is only damaging the common Allied cause in the struggle against the enemy.

"There is only one of the many reasons for recognition of the national committee. Not only material help but recognition of the committee by the Allies represents aid expected by the peoples of Yugoslavia and the national liberation army."

Asked whether there was any likelihood of (Yugoslavia's) falling within the sphere of any major power or combination of powers after the war, Tito replied that Yugoslavia's effort in the war would give the Yugoslavs the right "to arrange for themselves their internal organization and their foreign relations —a right guaranteed by the Atlantic charter and the Moscow and Tehran conferences.

"Experience in the past shows how much and how dearly the people of Yugoslavia have paid because foreign powers have meddled in the organization of their foreign and internal policy. This has led to international complications, conflicts, and finally war."

With this lesson learned, he said, the liberation movement would "struggle with all its might against the intervention of foreign powers" in the internal or foreign policies of Yugoslavia.

Sees United Yugoslavia

"Our experience and success in the present struggle give us the right to say that the peoples of Yugoslavia will succeed in this. This statement is also justified by the fact that the allies envisage already a democratic, federated Yugoslavia not only as an important factor in the struggle for the final destruction of German fascism but also in the post-war organization of southeastern Europe on the healthy basis of mutually respecting peoples and friendly cooperation for the renewal of war-devastated Europe. Tied with friendly links to her allies now as well as after the war, a democratic, federated Yugoslavia will, I believe, fulfill with honor her post-war role."

He said Yugoslavia's foreign policy would be to maintain the best possible relations with her three great allies, Britain, the United States, and Russia, and that support of all three of these powers would be necessary to her in peace as well as in this war.

Tito gave figures on the amount of German pillage found in Lika, one of the poorest regions of Yugoslavia and the first to be liberated — thousands of horses, cattle, sheep, and pigs carried off, forage taken and countless houses burned down.

Of towns completely destroyed, he listed Udbina, Korenica, Rogatica, Glamoc, Prozor, Bojnic, Kljuc and Vlasenica. Railroads have been destroyed, industrial plants wrecked, mines closed. All this devastation would entail an enormous post-war reconstruction plan, he said.

"For this rebuilding we will need the help of foreign capital, for our own resources will be insufficient."

SELECTS STILL FIND FAVOR

Some Issues Give Good Account While Others Are Neglected.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, May 20—Selected stocks continued to give a moderately good account of themselves on today's market although many leaders still displayed considerable losing reluctance.

The list had to contend with a little profit cashing. The fact there was no selling of consequence served to buoy the spirits of optimists. Dealings picked up now and then after a slow opening and turnover for the two hours was around 330,000 shares.

Sinclair Oil touched another 1944 peak but failed to follow through. In front at intervals were Kennecott, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Montgomery Ward, Westinghouse and International Nickel.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

I NODDED without speaking, for I did not think Hugh needed or desired an oral answer to his request. Then I hurried after the others, with almost soundless footsteps, back to the kitchen. When I sauntered up to them inside the kitchen I closed the door.

"Now I know little more than you do about this," I said, "But on one point Major Grantland is insistent. He wants the Tigers to be safe in their own home, and Charlie Kent well on the way to Sag Harbor, before he turns these men loose."

Sam Alarmed

He's goin' to turn them loose?" Sam Tiger quavered, and I saw that there was a touch of alarm in the eyes of the other three.

"I think so too," I told them, "but they do not dream that any one of you has been here, and I am sure Major Grantland has schemed out some way of dealing with them. We all know now that the one in the library is an F.B.I. man and I'm sure he has given Major Grantland the means of working out a trap for the other three."

"If Major Grantland is on the job, I don't think any of us need worry," Mrs. Tiger said quietly, and I saw alarm fade from the eyes of the three men, as if her successful quelling of her own uneasiness had quieted theirs.

"How long will it take you to get home with the truck across the fields?" I asked.

"Wa'al," Sam Tiger drawled with characteristic uncertainty, "that's hard to tell. Not more than ten minutes, I reckon, prob'ly less."

"And how long will it take you to go from Tiger's to your home in Sag Harbor?" I asked Charlie Kent.

Ten-Minute Journey

If the cargoes alright ten minutes at thirty-five," he answered promptly.

"Then," I decided, "we'll wait to turn these chaps loose until we hear from you. But I don't want too many telephone calls. Don't telephone me, Mrs. Tiger, unless something happens and you need us. But, Charlie, when you get home, ask your wife to telephone me and say you told her to tell me your car was all right and that you'd be out at the house at six-thirty for that early train.

"Then I'll know," I finished, "that both you and the Tigers have reached home safely, and that then we can carry out whatever plan Major Grantland has in mind."

I moved to the kitchen door as I spoke, an unlocked it. The four were close behind me, and when I undid the night chain and drew the door open, they hurried past me with low "Good nights." I shut the door after them, locked it, put up the night chain and turned to Junior and Roderick, watching me with wide-eyed curiosity.

Tentative Suggestion

"Now," I said uncertainly, "I imagine Uncle Hugh will want you to go to bed."

"Oh, Mums! Oh, Auntie Madge!" Their protests were almost wails, and the distress upon their faces would have been ludicrous if I had not known it expressed genuine grief and despair at being excluded from the further developments of a melodrama-soaked night.

It was like shutting a little child away from an expected Christmas tree, I told myself, and weakened.

"I'll do what I can for you," I told them. "But if Uncle Hugh says you must go upstairs, you know that's final."

"Not if you ask him, it isn't," Junior said blithely. "He always used to do whatever you wanted him to do."

"That is because the requests I made were unimportant, only those which a gentleman would ordinarily grant to a lady," I said, hoping that the sudden heat in my cheeks did not show. "But this is very different. However, I will do what I can. Now shut the kitchen door after me, and—you may get something to eat out of the refrigerator if you're hungry."

They shook their heads in a decided negative.

"We couldn't eat a mouthful until this is over, could we, Rod?" Junior said, and I turned away to hide my twitching lips.

"I'll be back as soon as I know what Uncle Hugh decides," I told them primly, and went out of the door, hearing it shut behind me.

I went to the door of the living room, opened it softly, saw Jim standing guard over the two men, and shut it again, sure that either he or the men he guarded had been there.

Then I opened the library door as softly, firmly repressed the impulse to laugh aloud at determined Katie with the baseball bat brandished above the bound and blindfolded men lying prone at her feet. With that door shut again behind me, I returned to my study door and knocked softly. Hugh opened the door, and catching my hand drew me inside, and shut it again.

"Now," he said, pulling forward a chair for me, "we can get down to cases."

YOUR HEALTH

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Local Anaesthesia

I wonder how many even noticed the obituary notice, let alone paused to think of the importance of the work the man had done. It was not a conspicuous notice. In "Time" it was placed fourth on the list, evidently the death of Lord Charles Arthur Cavendish, who never did a thing in his life out of the routine except be born second son of the Duke of Devonshire, and a Hollywood producer, and a millionaire art collector were considered of more importance than—"Dr. Karl Koller, 86, ophthalmologist, in Manhattan. He was the first doctor to use cocaine as a local anaesthetic."

Karl Koller died on the anniversary of his great discovery. It was in 1884, sixty years ago, when he was a young man of 26, that there was published in the Vienna Weekly Medical Journal the article "on the action of cocaine as an anaesthetic in the eye."

Young Koller was working there as an interne in the General Hospital of Vienna. Among the attending physicians whom he served was Dr. Sigmund Freud, afterwards world famous as the psychologist who introduced the procedure of psycho-analysis to the world. Dr. Freud always interested in nerves had been curious about the action of cocaine, the alkaloid which Nieman had isolated from the coca plant in 1859. He found it paralyzed nerve endings, rendering them dead to pain.

Dr. Freud knew that young Koller was interested in the eye, was working towards specializing in that field. He suggested to him that cocaine might be used locally in the conjunctival sac of the eye to deaden pain for operations. "I have started," wrote Koller, in his original paper "with the premise that a substance which paralyzes the terminal sensory nerves of the mucous membrane of the tongue would not act very differently on those of the cornea and conjunctiva. If a few drops of an aqueous solution of muriate of cocaine are dropped in the cornea of a guinea pig, a rabbit or a dog, after a period of 30 seconds the animal's eye assumes a peculiar expression of rigidity. If one now touches the cornea of the animal with the head of a pin, being careful not to come in contact with the eyelashes, no reflex closure of the lid occurs, as would otherwise happen. I then experimented on myself and found that after installation of a two per cent solution into my conjunctival sac, the corner could be touched with the head of a pin with no pain, indeed with no sensation whatever resulting."

The discovery, of course, was of momentous help in many ways to eye sufferers. The pain and irritation of a cinder or other foreign body in the eye could be quieted so that the patient could keep quiet long enough for the doctor to remove it. Eye operations could be performed without the dangers attendant on a general anaesthetic.

It was, in fact, the second step in the conquest of pain. The first step had been made in 1842 when Crawford W. Long, a country practitioner in Georgia, had administer ether by inhalation in order to perform a surgical operation, which he proved could be done without the patient feeling any pain. Koller's demonstration was the second great step because it introduced local anaesthesia. The principle of local anaesthesia is "why should the whole body be put to sleep and rendered insensitive with all the consequences of intoxication, periodic ebone and nausea and vomiting when only one part of the body is to be operated on and that part alone can be rendered free from pain?"

Later steps were the use of spinal anaesthesia and now the patient can be rendered anaesthetic by substances taken by mouth or vein.

Better local anaesthetics have been introduced since Koller's time—novocaine for skin infiltration and holocaine and butyn for the eye. But to Dr. Koller goes the credit for the first discovery of this wonderful advance. I do not know the exact date when he settled in New York to practice his specialty of the eye but it must have been over forty years ago.
